Families Flee From Homes As Flames Sweep Fair Grounds

Two Crippled Persons Carried to Safety, While Calgary Exhibition Industrial Building Goes Up in Smoke; Property Loss Is Estimated at $65,000

Calgary, May 15.—A fire which apparently started in the centre of the seventy-foot tower, destroyed the industrial building here, at an early hour this morning. Seven houses were slightly scorched.

Close to fifty persons were driven from their homes by the heat. They were awakened by a group of young men who saw the danger.

The building was totally destroyed and the loss is estimated at $65,000. Among those carried to safety were two cripples, a man and a woman. All were able to return to their homes about 2 a.m.

POPE'S RADIO ADDRESS HEARD BY VICTORIANS

Pontiff Blesses Laboring People of World; Declares Reconstruction Needed

Many in Victoria this forenoon heard the voice of Pope Pius XI. Clearly the address came over the radio, as delivered in Vatican City.

Vatican City, May 15.—Speaking in Italian, French and German, Pope Pius XI to-day addressed 10,000 workmen in the courtyard of San Damiano, exhorting them to industrial concord and union.

He referred to a resume issued to-day of his forthcoming encyclical on labor.

Three words, he said, constituted his theme. They were, prayer, action and sacrifice.

These three were necessary, he said, before any initiative of good, individual or collective, could bear fruit.

This was the Pope's first important speech in the vernacular. His address on the occasion of the inauguration of the Vatican City radio station last February was delivered in Latin.

THOUSANDS OF PILGRIMS

Vatican City, May 15.—Pope Pius XI, making his second important radio broadcast, began speaking at 5:38 p.m. to-day (8:28 a.m. Victoria time), on the subject of labor and capital.

Alberta Forest Fires Controlled

Edmonton, May 15.—Fires that for several days swept northern Alberta areas, threatening valuable timber lands and partially crippling communications, were under control to-day.

Aided by a calm atmosphere and by the light rain which fell Thursday morning, forestry department crews and volunteer workers were able to check the serious conflagration between Spirit River and Grand Prairie.

Around Peace River, according to reports received, the countryside is free of fires.

Cooler Weather Follows Heat Wave And Gales On Prairies

Regina, May 15.—Scores of workmen were busy to-day bringing back to normal the power service in the southeastern section of Regina, disrupted during a violent gale yesterday evening. Gangs of men rushed from Moose Jaw, were assisting the local crews, and it was expected the damage would be for the most part repaired to-day.

The wind yesterday evening, almost of cyclone violence, climaxed the prairie's first heat wave of the season, which gave way this morning to cooler weather. Citizens breathed more easily to-day in a cooler temperature.

Police reported that twenty-five poles were leveled yesterday evening when the gale raked the one sec-

Victoria Will Not Welcome Aerial Fleet

Owing to lack of accommodation here the all-Canadian aerial goodwill tour scheduled for July will stop at Vancouver and not come to Victoria, according to information received yesterday by A. R. C. Morton, manager of the Lansdowne field.

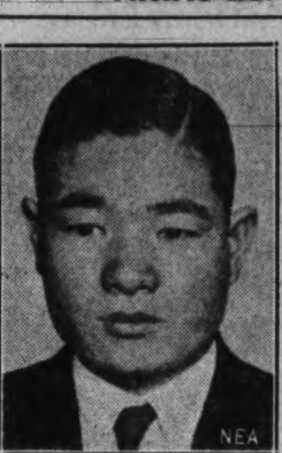

As there will be between twenty and thirty planes on the flight the Lansdowne field will be too small to accommodate them, it is felt, and in any case has only a temporary license as a landing field.

The aerial fleet is due on the coast about July 22. It will leave Hamilton, Ontario, on July 1.

A. R. C. Morton, manager of the Lansdowne field, is expected to-day to receive a letter from the all-Canadian aerial goodwill tour, which is scheduled for July, stating that the tour will stop at Vancouver and not come to Victoria, according to information received yesterday by A. R. C. Morton, manager of the Lansdowne field.

Rain relieved drought conditions in the Calgary area.

FINDING OF NEW STAR REPORTED

Official Announcement Expected Soon on Saanich Observatory Discovery

Discovery of a massive new star in a cluster of hundreds of stars by Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Saanich, and Dr. J. A. Pearce, may be announced soon, it was learned to-day.

Both Dr. Plaskett and Dr. Pearce have left to attend meetings of the Astronomical Society in Winnipeg and the Royal Society in Toronto, and in their absence it was impossible to obtain denial or confirmation of the report. It was learned, however, that in the course of observation of hundreds of stars Dr. Pearce discovered what is believed to be a massive new star. Observations were continuing up to the time they left for eastern Canada and reports have been made on the subject it is understood. Reference to the discovery may be made from Ottawa shortly by the Department of the Interior.

The matter may be dealt with by Dr. Plaskett during the meetings in Toronto where he is scheduled to read papers by himself and Dr. Pearce on "Gaseous Matter in Space" and "A Very Massive Stellar System."

The discovery of a new star would bring further honors to the Vancouver Island Observatory following the discovery nine years ago by Dr. Plaskett of the new star "Plaskett Twins" which was officially named after him.

SLOT MACHINE OPERATORS TO PAY $10 FINE

Guilty Plea Entered in Seventeen Cases By Counsel

Seventeen storekeepers were fined $10 each in City Police Court this morning when, Frank Higgins, K.C., entered a plea of guilty on their behalf in gaming charges laid by police some time ago on operation of slot machines.

Several weeks ago a fine of $25 was imposed in one test case, but Mr. Higgins asked for a smaller penalty in the rest of the cases, stating he would withdraw appeal, in the other case, as his clients were indifferent as to whether or not they continued operation of the machines.

Magistrate George Jay reserved decision on confiscation of the seventeen machines until Monday. Each of the machines is worth about $100, and Mr. Higgins asked they be not seized, since they would not be used again in the city. There was some doubt as to whether or not they were gambling devices.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said the magistrate.

Mr. Higgins intimated the storekeepers and the owners of the machines were prepared to discontinue use of them.

Those fined this morning were: Mrs. Ada Beaumont, 844 View Street; Quon Cook, 2500 Douglas Street; Hong Hop, 744 Hillside Avenue; Ah Lee Wah, 1309 Gladstone Avenue; Quon Lay, 1023 Cook Street; Emma Knight, 1302 Gladstone Avenue; Sara F. Rev. Hugh Dobson Protests World Tendency Towards Gambling and Liquor; Rev. R. C. Scott Urges Well-paid Ministers to Lead in Self Denial by Acceptance of Salary Cuts; B.C. Conference Asked to Lead United Church Towards Pledging Business Service Before Profit

Denunciation of reliance upon sweepstakes or lotteries for revenues for hospitals, coupled with protests against the Senate having permitted Senator G. H. Barnard to introduce the matter; a passionate appeal to the better-paid ministers of the United Church to agree to a more equitable level of salaries among the rank and file of the ministry and proposals that the British Columbia Conference lead the United Church in a move to replace profit as the prime motive of business activity with a motive of service, were the high lights of this morning's proceedings of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church of Canada, now in session at First United Church. The points were made in course of discussion of the report of the committee on evangelism and social service, presented by Rev. Gordon Dickie, Vancouver, which was returned to the committee for redrafting prior to further consideration.

HOSPITALS BACK ON HANDS

The attack on sweepstakes and the action of Senator Barnard was voiced by Rev. Hugh Dobson of Vancouver, associate secretary for social service and evangelism. Remarking that the world was experiencing a great upheaval in ideas, he protested the introduction into the Senate of legislation to legalize sweepstakes for hospitals.

"Ten years we will have the hospitals back again asking for aid. They will have lost the backing of the charitable, which is now such a factor in their maintenance. No gambling or speculation can succeed over a long term," he warned.

Dr. Dobson likened the sweepstakes plan of finance to the propaganda which had preceded liquor control, declaring that expectations of huge revenues for benevolent purposes had been a factor in enabling the liquor interests to regain their place. He asserted the liquor interests to be predatory by instinct and in practice and that they had taken $200,000,000 from Canada last year and were seeking to strengthen their hold on the nation.

Paragraphs of the report calling for development of spiritual activity having been approved, the conference was asked to consider a section concerning unemployment. This called upon governmental bodies and employers to give immediate study to the problem, including unemployment insurance. Rev. R. C. Scott of the coast mission service promptly protested "This performance" (Concluded on page 2)

King Asks About Bennett Barriers When Funds For Commissioners Asked

Ottawa, May 15.—When estimates for the Canadian Trade Commissioners' offices abroad were before the Commons yesterday evening, Mr. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, asked if they were necessary in view of the "Canada First" policy of the Bennett government. That policy, he said, was to prohibit importation of all goods that might be manufactured in Canada. If that were so, of what service were trade commissioners?

That interpretation of the "Canada First" policy was hardly correct, said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. It was not the government's intention to exclude imports, but rather to give Canadian interests (Concluded on page 2)

OLD MILITARY UNIFORMS ARE VALUABLE FIND

Trunkful of Interesting Articles Found in Basement of Federal Marine Building

Rare Old Indian Blanket and Hand Carved Coat of Arms Prove Historically Valuable

A trunkful of moth-eaten British military uniforms of sixty years ago, log books of famous old vessels, a valuable and rare Indian blanket, a hand-carved golden eagle and insignia and army accoutrements, rusty and tarnished green and yellow with age, was unearthed in the basement of the Federal Government Marine Building on Wharf Street this morning by workmen who were cleaning up the old basement.

The trunkful of clothing was particularly interesting because it led to much speculation as to whom the uniforms might have belonged. John Hoste, historian and archivist at the Parliament Buildings, was advised of the find and he took the articles into his care in an effort to find the link with the early history of British Columbia.

The vehicle, renovated and redecorated for the May Day event, was the one used by Lord and Lady Dufferin on their trip over the Caribon Highway in the early eighties. Drawn by four grey horses, the coach carried to old-timers the pioneer days of the May Day celebration, which is now the one memory of the great Westminster.

EMPIRE BANK NOW URGED TO RESTORE SILVER

J. F. Darling, British Banker, Lays Plan Before Canadian Commons Committee

Says Bank's Proportionate Purchases of Silver and Gold Would Be Big Factor

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 15.—The coming Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa would be an excellent place to start the restoration of the value of silver, J. F. Darling, director of the Midland Bank of England, told the banking and commerce committee of the Commons this forenoon. He suggested Premier R. B. Bennett as the man to start it.

Something had to be done to rescue the world from the economic morass into which it was sinking, Mr. Darling declared. The impossibility of carrying the stupendous debts resting on the nations of the British Empire—and the same was the case with the United States and other nations—under the present price levels was emphasized by Mr. Darling. The present scales of wages could not be maintained unless something were done to lift prices of commodities. The greater the value of the world was higher price levels.

NEW EMPIRE BANK

The scheme outlined by Mr. Darling contemplated the formation of an Empire bank, which would make possible a bi-metallic basis of currency, silver being restored to its place along side of gold with a value ratio of one to twenty in favor of gold instead of the existing very one-sided ratio in which gold is seventy to eighty times as valuable as silver. This would restore to India and other countries using silver currency the wealth and purchasing power they enjoyed before the devaluation of their metal took place.

BIGGER PURCHASES

The restoration of silver values would mean immediate enhancement of wealth to those holding silver, Mr. Darling agreed, but it would be permanent and would enable these people to purchase with this increased wealth. If the British Empire took the lead, he thought all portions of the world using silver currency would join in the move. He hoped the United States would join in the scheme. In view of the immense international debts, should silver begin to slip in value as compared with gold it could be regulated by the nations accepting the proposal would be a big step in the restoration of silver. A big step in the acceptance of debt payments in silver by the United States and Great Britain.

The railway committee room of the Parliament Buildings was filled with an eagerly interested audience, mostly Parliamentarians.

Mr. Darling replied to a long series of questions to the working out of his proposals. One thing he emphasized was that something must be done soon. The international conference on the silver question would take too much time to be of any effect, he said. His suggestion was that the British Empire take the lead in a definite programme to restore the value of silver, and he hoped the opinion Canada would take a position to take the leadership in this matter.

OLD LOG BOOKS

The log books are dated various years, from 1870 to 1880, and most of them are from the old vessel Sir James Douglas, which was a well-known ship in the day. There are also a number of receipt books with the same dates, and their reading promises to be most interesting. They are thick with dust and grime, and the pages are slightly damp. These were also found in the trunk along with a number of sword scabbards and powder belts, all showing the ravages of time. As far as can be remembered by officials of the Marine Department the trunk has been in the basement for at least twenty years, but was never before touched because it was thought that it belonged to some sailor who had left for sea and left the trunks in charge of the shipping master.

The Indian blanket is a rare old thing, it is of mountain goat's wool as far as could be ascertained and is hand made. It is a magnificent blanket, which makes the morning's find all the more valuable.

IS HAND MADE

Dug out from behind a huge barrel in the basement was a mighty coat of arms of some sort, but just what it was or might have been, those who saw it this morning were unable to say. A huge golden eagle was mounted on a crest. On the crest was a barrel, a beaver and in the claws that it held was a live branch. The entire thing was hand made, and copper nails were used to put the various parts together. It had been broken, but is still in remarkably good shape.

Midsex scored 338 and 250 and Gloucester 200. The match was at Lords.

Surrey won from Somerset on the first innings at the Kensington oval. Scores were: Surrey 379 for four wickets, declared. Somerset 338.

The game between New Zealand and Hampshire Southampton was drawn, though not before C. S. Dempster had scored his second century of the visitors' tour. He hit up 106, not out.

Yorkshire and Cambridge University could not reach a decision, scores being: Yorkshire 976 for six wickets; Cambridge 179 and 93 runs for three wickets.

Leicester and Oxford University also drew, the former scoring 232 and the Dark Blues 291 and 32 runs for no wickets.

Believed Ottawa Magistrate Put End to His Life

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 15.—Belief that Magistrate Charles Hopewell, veteran law administrator of Ottawa, had committed suicide was expressed by relatives to-day, following discovery of articles of his clothing on the bank of the Ottawa River.

Another factor in the suicide theory was a note from the magistrate for his wife, left in the care of Hal Burns, prominent lawyer. An accompanying note to Mr. Burns stated, "his worthless remains" would be found near a Rockcliffe boathouse.

Police this afternoon were dragging the Ottawa River.

The veteran magistrate lately had been much worried over his health and the state of his finances.

House of Commons Approves World League Arbitration Agreement

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 15.—The adherence of Canada to chapters 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the General Act of 1928 for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes, with certain reservations, was moved by Premier Bennett in the Commons this afternoon.

A lengthy resolution outlining the character and compass of these reservations was read by Mr. Bennett and explained.

The chapters of the act, he said, dealt with, first, conciliation; second, reference of disputes to the Court of International Justice; third, arbitration; and fourth, general provisions covering jurisdiction in disputes.

The Commons unanimously approved the resolution.

INCONSISTENCY SEEN IN PLANS IN TRADE FIELD

first consideration. The primary duty of trade commissioners abroad, the minister said, was to find markets for Canadian goods and that would be fostered by the government.

POSITION OF BRITAIN

Mr. King said it was appropriate and desirable that some expression should be obtained of the government's policy on trade matters. The minister had spoken of the other dominions, but he had said nothing about trade relations with Great Britain. What, asked Mr. King, was the effect of the government's policy going to be?

The government must be as difficult as possible for goods to come into Canada. Now the House was being asked to vote the same amount of money for the support of trade commissioners with the United Kingdom. If goods that were manufactured in Canada could not be imported into Great Britain, then why should that money be spent in Great Britain?

REVENUES TAIL

The government's policy of Canada, First meant "adequate protection." If other parts of the empire, continued Mr. King, wanted to trade with Canada, they would have to follow Canada's example in the way of tariff walls. That policy meant the restriction of trade of this country, and, as Mr. King said, it was a serious result. Not only was it crippling the trade of Canada, but it was also affecting revenues to a serious extent.

Mr. King said the trade policy of the government, wherever it was possible, was to divert Canadian exports to countries willing to buy our goods.

Imports would be encouraged, from countries which provided good customers for Canadian products.

TRADE WITH CHINA

After the discussion the item of $700,000 for the commercial intelligence service was approved by the House.

There was a discussion of Chinese trade, F. G. Sanderson, Liberal, South Perth, Ontario, brought the question.

When he quoted from Premier R. B. Bennett's speech in December, 1928, in which Mr. Bennett had said that the Canadian government was not in a position to take the leadership in this matter.

Nude Parade Seen By Motorists at Thrums, B.C.; Before Brilliant Conference

Canadian Press
Nelson, B.C., May 15.—Incoming motorists reported nude Doukhobors were seen on the highway at Thrums, the Sons of Freedom capital, this morning, following a concentration on Thrums from other colonies in the last two or three days.

It was said the disturbing might have been a prelude to a demonstration at the public conference between Inspector W. B. Duff of the Provincial Police and Peter Verigin and Doukhobor followers this afternoon at Thrums, when the government's ultimatum on law and order was to be presented.

The police party had to pass Thrums to reach Brilliant.

Chihuahua City, Mexico, May 15.—A delegation of Russians from western Canada arrived here to-day to inspect the Santa Clara hacienda, not far from the city, with a view to purchasing it for the colonization of several thousand white Russian farmers now domiciled in Canada and other countries.

DECEASED WORKERS

The obituary committee this morning recorded the deaths of three ministers and two missionaries. The ministers who had passed on were all formerly of the Presbyterian Church and included Rev. John Campbell, D.D.; Rev. Thomas A. Sadler, B.A.; and Rev. John A. Logan, D.D. The missionaries were J. E. Rendle and Edward Nicholas.

Ministers' wives who had died during the year were: Mrs. C. M. Tate, Mrs. J. A. Logan, Mrs. E. G. Thompson, Mrs. J. W. Ogden, Mrs. Lucy MacColl, Mrs. F. B. Stacey and Mrs. A. W. Ogden.

E. W. Beatty Sails For England; Plans Return on New Ship

Montreal, May 15.—The construction of the new 42,500-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain was a bold attempt to place the St. Lawrence route on a par with the great lines of the Atlantic ports, said E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who sailed for Liverpool this morning on the Empress of Britain.

Accompanied by a number of Canadian business leaders, he will return on the maiden voyage of the Empress of Britain, leaving Southampton May 27. In Mr. Beatty's party were F. S. Meredith, a director of the Canadian Pacific and J. W. Hobbs, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Beatty said that during the first three months of his trip he would visit London, Glasgow, Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, and other cities, and would meet with the British and Canadian trade associations.

TWO MURDER HEARINGS AT PRINCE GEORGE

Carl Fredericks Before Jury To-day; Michael Sowry Case Will Be Heard Afterward

Two interpreters at Work To-day and Proceedings Move Slowly

Canadian Press
Prince George, B.C., May 15.—Two men, each charged with a double murder in northern British Columbia, faced trial in the assize court here to-day. Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald presided, with A. M. Johnson, K.C., of Victoria, appearing as prosecutor.

The first case taken up was that of Carl Fredericks, charged with the murder of his two companions, Herman Peters and Max Westphal, at Trembleur Lake, on the waterway several miles north of Port St. James, during the first week of June last.

ALONG TACHIE RIVER

The prosecution's attempt to establish that Fredericks and his two companions were observed by Tachie Indians, making their way up the Tachie River to Trembleur Lake, and that Fredericks returned down the river in a few days. He did some trading with the Indians and informed them he had been taken ill and had left his companions in the north. Several months later the bodies of Herman Peters and Max Westphal were found in a shallow grave by police at Trembleur Lake in the vicinity of the place where the three men had been encamped. The head had been severed from the body of Peters, and was found wrapped in a sack the head of the body of Westphal had been beaten into a pulp. From the appearance of the bodies the two men had been murdered in their sleep.

In view of the fact that much of the evidence is being given by Indians not familiar with English, and that the accused is a German, speaking indifferent English, two interpreters are assisting at the hearing, which has slowed down the proceedings materially and the case is likely to occupy two or three days.

SOWRY CASE

The case of Sowry, in which Michael Sowry is charged with the murder of Joseph and Annie Babchuk in their home at Port St. John, is not likely to be called until the middle of next week. In that case J. A. Russell of Vancouver will conduct the prisoner's defence.

tory passing of the sections concerning the Kingdom of God movement" and the Kingdom of God movement, as well as a basis that religion could only be based on a force through material things.

PLEA TO WELL-PAID

After telling of distress among workmen and forecasting "we will not be through this period of depression as easily as some think," he voiced an appeal for leadership and an example, declaring "The system of production and distribution is at fault, not only outside the church, but inside as well. I do not see how ministers who are getting big salaries can expect to be good leaders in God's Kingdom. I personally am ill at ease in my bag and pants suit, and I am not sure I shall not accept more than the minimum salary this year. I am not saying everyone should do it, but there is a great opportunity here for leadership," he said, amid applause.

Rev. Dr. Dobson stated that many of the better paid ministers paid the mission and maintenance fund much larger sums than were required of them.

Rev. A. K. McMillin of Kelowna supported Capt. Scott, saying "He shows the way to more than is service. We have the example of the man who had nowhere to lay his head. We are not doing the things Jesus said, so how can we expect the Kingdom? We have not dedicated material things to God. How many of us have given even the tithe? We have not begun to be Christians."

Mr. McMillin declared that a score of men controlled the wealth of Canada and 500 men in the United States had between them incomes of more than the value of the combined wheat and cotton crops.

Rev. R. B. Y. Scott of Union College believed the standards of salaries might well be reformed. If we are going to appeal to employers to be brotherly we must first be willing to share among ourselves," he commented.

EFFORTS RECOGNIZED

Rev. O. M. Sanford, the retiring president, said the conference should formally express gratitude to governments and large employers for the sincere efforts made to ameliorate distress by providing emergency employment.

While not pessimistic he could see no prospect of an immediate break in the cloud of economic depression which might continue for a long time. "Let us urge the governments and large employers to stretch every effort to workers coping with the problem," he urged.

GANDHI URGES UNITY AMONG INDIA GROUPS

Canadian Press Cable Via Reuter's Simla, India, May 15.—Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, told a meeting here yesterday that until real unity of heart had been achieved in the demand for self-government, it was useless for him to go to London for the Second Round-Table Conference on India in November.

While the white-robed and statuesque Mirabhai held an umbrella over him, Gandhi addressed a large gathering of Nationalists in a heavy rain.

He pleaded with all the people of India, of whatever race or religion, to unite in a unanimous demand for self-government, declaring that otherwise his visit to London would be useless.

"Whether the government observes the Delhi pact or not," he said, "it is our bounden duty to observe it, because only by keeping our pledged word can we win the confidence of the world."

JOSEPH KOVACS IS EXECUTED AT WELLAND, ONT.

Canadian Press

Welland, Ont., May 15.—Joseph Kovacs, forty-five, convicted of the slaying of Constable J. A. McNicol of Crowland in September last, was hanged in the county jail here this morning at 5.30 o'clock.

Kovacs, in his last moments, spoke a quiet "Good-bye to all."

Kovacs spent his last twenty-four hours quietly and expressed no desire to see his common-law wife or the numerous friends and relatives who besieged the jail in a vain hope of gaining permission to visit him.

The execution was carried out expeditiously. While a crowd gathered outside as dawn was breaking, thirty police officers guarded the scene while a deputy Arthur Ellis, regular hangman, performed his duties.

The crime for which the condemned man paid with his life was committed when Constable J. A. McNicol, responding to a telephone report on the night of September 2, last, that Kovacs was creating a disturbance, mounted the steps of the veranda at the Kovacs home to investigate. The latter was sitting on a chair on the veranda with a 12-gauge shotgun across his knees. Suddenly a shot rang out and the constable fell, fatally wounded.

COURTAULD WAS BURIED FOR WEEKS IN IGLOO

With Explorer Back at Greenland Coast After Rescue, His Story Is Told

Associated Press

Angmagssalik, Greenland, May 15.—A story of being buried two months beneath ice and snow in an igloo was told here yesterday by Augustus Courtauld. The British scientist, who was rescued last week by fellow members of the British Arctic Air Route Expedition, had only a chimney way to provide air in his place of refuge on the Greenland ice cap.

Courtauld, whom Capt. Albin Ahrensberg, Swedish aviator, brought here with H. G. Watkins, chief of the rescue party, from their inland base, was unshaven and unrecognizable beneath long growth of beard, and appeared somewhat the worse for his long enforced diet of seal meat.

Watkins said his rescue party had toiled for many weeks over the ice crags toward the locality where at the winter's beginning they had left Courtauld to observe weather conditions. They frequently lost the trail and near the place they reckoned Courtauld to have been left were delayed for days when the sky clouded over and they could not ascertain their position.

In searching a wide ice field they found an enormous drift, covered with a thick layer of ice, which they at once concluded must have been Courtauld's igloo. At the top of the snow mound, which rose above the surrounding acres of frozen snow, the weary party found a small hole, which was the only opening in the surrounding desert and which they concluded must be the igloo's chimney.

DUG HIM OUT

They shouted down into it, hoping their comrade was safe below, and heard in reply an unexcited "Hello. All right," which relieved their doubts and assured them the imprisoned man was very much alive. They went to work with spades and within fifteen minutes had dug down and reached Courtauld. Courtauld said that two months before a blizzard had raged for several days, completely covering the igloo. It was out of the question to try to dig himself out, first because the snow would have fallen in on him and then because he had left his only shovel outside before the blizzard began. Part of his supplies also were outside.

There was no opening to the outside world from the murky light except by the chimney, which he had to keep open to provide air. For a month he was without a permanent light and depended for an occasional glimmer on a little gasoline lamp which he used to melt snow to obtain drinking water.

He said he spent most of his dreary time in his sleeping bag, dozing and thinking, telling himself to keep his courage up.

BEEF ONLY FOOD WITH NO SURPLUS ON MARKETS NOW

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 15.—Beef is practically the only human food at the present time that is not in excess production. states the eleventh annual live-stock market and meat trade review, shortly to be published by the Dominion Live-Stock Branch.

The review observes Canada's meat production at present is on a comparatively low basis but that this does not necessarily guarantee a maintenance of good prices during the present year. It takes the view that a general business revival is necessary as well as an alternative outlet, which it considers essential to any marked stability and improvement in the beef trade market.

The review observes also that the turn of the road in respect to the meat market will probably come much more quickly, in view of the fact that there is no world surplus of beef at present, than it would were the beef market in a situation similar to that prevailing with respect to many other commodities. The situation summed up as generally favorable and as appearing to warrant a programme of expansion, providing it is well developed.

MOFFS CRITICAL IN U. S.

Attention is called to what is described as a "most critical situation" with respect to supply existing in the United States than applies to Canada. From the standpoint of continental outlook the Canadian producer is reported to be, strategically, in a fairly safe position.

With the opening of navigation on the St. Lawrence River a decided pick-up in demand for ocean space to the Old Country market is expected. While shipments for the calendar year 1930 were the smallest in many years they contributed a measure of strength to the market at a very opportune and telling time, and their value could hardly be overestimated, the review states. Similar exports for 1931, however, are expected to be a very strong factor in the market.

TORONTO HEADS SALES

The volume of sales of cattle on Canadian stockyards for 1930 totalled 606,489 head, a decline of 374,000, as compared with 1929 and 193,000 below the sales for 1927. Toronto heads the list in volume of sales with a total of 276,184 head; Winnipeg comes next with 164,622; and the third-ranking stockyard sales 124,239 head were received on through-billing, and 311,785 calves were sold.

It is of special interest to note that the yearly average price for cattle sold at stockyards during 1930 was $6.35 per cwt., as against a yearly average price of $4.95 in 1929. The 1930 yearly average is just 61 per cent. below 1929.

ADVERTISING MEN MEET

THE ELEVENTH SEMI-ANNUAL CONFERENCE of the Pacific Northwest Advertising Executives Association, at which representatives of many leading newspapers are in attendance, calls to mind the important part newspaper advertising is playing in the development of industry.

Contrary to what may be popular belief, the science of advertising does not entirely belong to the modern age, although, of course, the invention of movable type and the development of the printer's art have given it its predominant position in commerce to-day. As a matter of fact, the rudiments of advertising actually are as old as commerce itself. Advertisements for runaway slaves were composed in the rudest forms of writing on papyrus and some well-preserved copies have been exhumed at Thebes. Before writing was developed, advertising by means of cries and sign boards existed. The latter have been used in all the ages for the information of the illiterate. Various devices were employed to denote the calling of the advertiser. For example, shops in ancient Pompeii had terra-cotta signs, showing a goat to indicate a milk-seller's stall, or two men at sword-play to denote a fencing school. Picture advertisements, incidentally, were common in London and Paris in the Middle Ages, so that those unable to read might find the shops that were so adorned. These primitive forms, however, began to disappear with progress in the art of printing.

The oldest newspaper advertisement preserved appears in a German newsbook of 1591, and is a book notice. The first newspaper traceable in France (1612) was partly an advertising medium, while the first English newspaper appeared in 1622, and the first advertisement thirty years later. The Boston News-Letter of 1704 apparently carried the first newspaper advertisement in America, but in The New England Weekly Journal of 1728 notices of shipping and rewards for slaves were numerous. Shortly afterward American newspapers began to carry miscellaneous trade advertisements.

The progress of the art of employing letterpress and illustration to convey a message from seller to buyer as we know it to-day never would have developed into such an important factor for business expansion as it has done if the system had not taken root in earliest times. It has stood the test down through the centuries and each year is marked by new achievements.

The construction of a newspaper advertisement these days is not a hurried business, some wording or an illustration to be shot at random into a specified space. It is a science, demanding the best work of the artist, an understanding of how to attract the attention of the reading public, how to impress the reader with the merit of the commodity advertised. Time was when the merchant thought he was not getting full value for his money if he did not mention in his publicity practically every article he had for sale. It is not too much to say in behalf of newspaper advertising, however, that its scientific development has improved methods of salesmanship. Not upon the quantity of material in the printed space, but rather upon its quality, the strength of its appeal to the eye as well as to the mind, does the newspaper advertiser now more generally depend to induce customers to enter his establishment. Salesmanship does the rest.

Newspaper advertising gained its popularity and retained it for obvious reasons. It is direct, intimate, persistent—the daily emphasis of the merits of the goods the advertiser has for sale. It is that which convinces. Other forms of advertising have kept company with the march of progress; but the most eminent commercial leaders of the world from time to time emphatically declare that nothing so far has appeared that can hope to wrest from newspaper advertising its compelling place in the realm of modern business. This is borne out by ever-increasing financial appropriations for this form of publicity.

The advertising executives who have gathered in Victoria to-day, therefore, meet with the knowledge that their business, having its origin in the mists of antiquity, is more robust than ever. Hence, we may predict that their sessions here will be both profitable and pleasant.

STATESMANSHIP REQUIRED

ONE OF THE IMPORTANT POINTS that ought to be remembered by all the delegates who attend the forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa is that if there is to be a greater measure of harmonious co-operation between the various members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, it will be necessary to modify the present system of tariffs and the policy of economic retaliation.

Canada and New Zealand are learning by experience how business is disturbed by the application of restrictive measures. This country raised the duty on butter against the southern Dominion from one cent to eight cents a pound. New Zealand raised the duty on motor vehicles and automobile accessories against Canada. Business that Canadian manufacturers had been getting—which provided considerable employment for Canadian workpeople—went to the United States. The following figures show how the exchange has fallen off in the last twelve months:

|------------------|--------------|--------------|
| Our exports..... | $19,047,269 | $13,611,206 |
| Our imports..... | $14,962,187 | $9,346,125 |

Here is a drop on a trade exchange amounting to approximately $35,000,000 of more than thirty per cent. The bold figures, of course, do not tell the whole story. Commodities on their way to outside markets and commodities coming into this country pass through many hands before they reach their ultimate destination—the consumer. All this handling means employment—employment for the railroads, employment in the course of manufacture where raw materials are involved, and so on.

In a reference to this substantial contraction of trade between the two Dominions, The New Zealand Herald, while blaming the New Zealand government for not coming to some arrangement with this country, says "the blame must be laid, in the first instance, at the door of Canada." Then it proceeds to point out that "what was done in reply to Canada's tariff action was no mere retaliation; it was done in expectation that it would produce a repercussion in Canada leading to a more favorable attitude towards this country." We then read further:

Consideration of this viewpoint impresses the fact that a body of Canadian opinion is adverse to measures taken in Canada to curtail and even prevent the importation of New Zealand butter—measures aimed, it must be said, directly and exclusively at New Zealand—and that the interests of both countries will be served by coming to a speedy agreement to remove obstacles to mutual trade. Associated with what is described as the virtual cutting off of one of Canada's best customers is the loss by this Dominion of a market that in 1929 absorbed 29 per cent of our butter export.

When the present Canadian government raised the import duty on New Zealand butter to 4d a pound there was also in view, on the clear word of Canada's Prime Minister, the negotiation of trade agreements with all parts of the empire; that is, the increase was impliedly meant as no more than a bargaining move. On this side, the increased tariff on Canadian motor vehicles and accessories was, with at least equal clearness, designed to impress Canadian opinion in the same way. Yet no advantageous bargaining has resulted.

Apart from all political considerations, the wisdom or folly of the Canadian and New Zealand governments, the fact is clear that the two countries, by their tariff actions, have restricted mutual markets at a time when the free flow of trade is most vital to both of them. If the statesmen of Canada and New Zealand are not able to change this foolish policy for one that is sound economically; there must be something radically wrong somewhere.

GOLD INDIGESTION

TO THE AVERAGE INDIVIDUAL the capacity to receive and make use of money presents him with no problem at all. He seldom sees sufficient in sight to worry him. But a nation's "capacity to receive" gold is a different matter entirely. Our neighbor on the south is more than ordinarily worried about her heavy stocks of this precious metal. She and France between them have most of the world's supply. The dislocation of trade recently, partly due to the operation of post-war treaties, has caused large quantities of bullion to travel awkwardly through unaccustomed and artificial channels, so that at last they have come to rest in places where their embarrassments outweigh their benefits.

We are frequently reminded that mankind can not eat gold and silver. Midas found that out. The Spanish kings of the sixteenth century got little comfort from the huge stocks of silver they had crowded into their cellars; they found themselves no richer from the point of view of real wealth. What was true then is true to-day. Gold requires an outlet to be of practical use, and foreign trade is that outlet. Storing it merely sends up prices at home and weakens its competitive power abroad. When times are good, of course, an excess of gold can be employed to obtain more imports of goods—which, after all, is the ultimate object of foreign trade—and the problem scarcely arises. Conditions differ entirely, however, when there are times of economic recession, when foreign trade is languishing and can not perform its normal function. Hence, some adjustment of the present situation, as allied to capacity to receive and capacity to pay, may have to be undertaken before the world recovers from its depression.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

A CHAMPION NEEDED
 The Manitoba Free Press

The question of the deportation of British citizens from Canada—ruthless, inconsiderate, brutal ejection of our own flesh and blood for the crime of economic failure—is again before the attention of the public both of Canada and Great Britain. Is there no voice to be raised in defence of these people who were invited and urged to come to this country, and who came with the hope and expectation of making homes for themselves?

JUVENILE DELINQUENTS
 The Kansas City Star

A Massachusetts bill would make it a crime, punishable by a $500 fine, for any one to give the public any knowledge as to "the name, address, photograph or other information tending in any way to identify a juvenile offender or delinquent, or his parent or guardian, or any witness or party to any proceeding against such offender." Some of the most dangerous criminals of today are juveniles within the classification of most states. They run to banditry and even murder. Many of them have been apprehended only because their identities, pictures and descriptions have been widely published. To shelter such young criminals would be to give them exactly what they want and would encourage many others, evilly inclined, to commit crimes behind the shelter against publicity.

A LIVE NEWSPAPER
 The Toronto Globe

Having observed its fortieth anniversary, The St. Catharines Standard goes on to add to the success that has attended it during a particularly useful life. After referring to early struggles, now merely a matter of reminiscence, The Standard thus accounts for the high place it occupies to-day: "Possibly the main and only reason is because this paper always has been based on public service. No other guiding principle would have sufficed but that, and no other principle but that, that has kept it going for the forty-first year of its publication under the same control as originally."

The Standard, published in the heart of the Niagara district, serves an ever-growing constituency. Founded by the late Mr. W. B. Burgoyne, it continues under the enterprising managing direction of Mr. H. B. Burgoyne, and the capable editorship of Mr. H. L. Walsh, whose keen grasp of public affairs is indicated each day on the editorial page. Because of its sane and interesting treatment of public questions The St. Catharines Standard is widely quoted by the press, and it is well established as one of the influential daily papers of the Dominion. The mechanical equipment of this paper has kept pace with its general expansion, so that the appearance of The Standard is in keeping with the excellence of its contents. Canadian newspapers will wish for this live St. Catharines daily continued prosperity.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

Some things that are not going to happen—Some vain regrets—Some wise suggestions—And some grisly news from next door.

By H. B. W.

THE news of provincial politics has been remarkable these last few days; remarkable, I mean, in that, while most news of politics means little, this news achieved the political ultimate and meant nothing whatever. First of all, Mr. Bower was not going to be Lieutenant-Governor. The Premier Toimie was not going to resign. Then General McRae was not going to enter politics at all. Then Mr. Howe was not going to be Lieutenant-Governor either. Apparently the latest fashion in provincial politics is to announce what you are not going to do, and the more unlikely the thing you are not going to do, the more exciting it is supposed to be to the electors. I suppose if the government announced that it was not going to abolish all taxation that would be staggering news; though personally I should accept it with composure. According to this new formula, that would be just as interesting as if the government announced that it was going to abolish all taxation, which I should also bear with composure.

As everyone else is enlightening the public on what he is not going to do, I feel that I must end all rumors and announce that I am not going to be Lieutenant-Governor, that I am not going to be premier, or attorney-general; that Doctor Toimie has not even asked me into his government and I will not go unasked. I am not going to save the country. The only real news of politics is that I am going out now and sow a fifth row of green peas.

IT is too bad that the art of poetry is dead in these times. I would like to see something worth while written about our Island bloom at this season. We need something like that to make us appreciate it. We take our bloom here too much as a matter of course, just as we pay no attention to the blue cammas which, in most parts of the world, is a rare bulb sold by nurseries at high prices. Even in Vancouver our gardeners regard it as a precious treasure. Fortunately bloom does not mind our neglect. It goes marching along triumphantly, hiding the scars of road builders, clothing the havoc of modern logging, feeding the game birds and extending a benediction everywhere. There are dozens of brooms besides that which is pouring its color out upon our roadways these days. I have a gorgeous yellow broom and another of paler hue which bloom a full month ahead of the common variety. I have another which creeps over rocks, hugging them tight, like a trailing juniper, another which is just opening now and still another which will not bloom for weeks. Just now they are curious and much admired, though none of them, I think, is quite equal to the ordinary variety. In a few years, no doubt, they will become known and grow wild everywhere. Then no one will admire them any more.

I SEE by the papers that the municipal authorities of Victoria and Saanich are concerned over the future of Mount Douglas Park. Their chief problem, having created a ghastly scar on the park in the form of a gravel pit, is to know what to do with it. I examined the situation carefully myself yesterday and it occurred to me that the gravel pit is of such size and shape to make a perfect pit for bears. It would be nice to have a bear pit at Mount Douglas, but I suppose we could not afford to buy bears for it. I have also considered this difficulty and it seems to me that the remedy for it is obvious. We could place in the pit the gentlemen who allowed the devastation of the park. They would be more interesting than mere bears in any case, for as a species they are so much rarer. We could safely claim for them that they are a species native and unique to the southern end of Vancouver Island and, compared to mere bears, a very dangerous species indeed.

NEWS HAS just reached me of another of those disturbing events next door which so often save me from thinking up something worth while to write about. And this time the event is really disturbing, I feel sure it will shock all earnest Christians in this community. It is so shocking, indeed, that I should attempt to hide it from the public, but for the fact that I need a hundred words or so to round out this column. In the face of the little city, then, I must reveal the little girl next door, while eating prunes for her supper last night, became angry at the discovery of prune stones inside the fruit, and she used a word concerning the stones which begins with the letter "d" and was not "damn" either. I am sorry, in a way, that the rules of this newspaper do not permit me to print the exact word, for the way the little girl repeated it in great annoyance at the prune stones was secretly delightful to a wicked pagan like me.

THIS distressing moral lapse on the part of the little girl caused a serious family upheaval next door. For, of course, the mother blamed the young father for teaching the little girl a bad word by his example, and the young father blamed the young mother. Both of them denied the charge hotly and insisted that they had never used a naughty word in front of their offspring in their lives and the young mother burst into tears and the young father went and dug desperately in the garden, where, out of earshot of his children, he addressed to things worse than that addressed to her custom, she has accepted the usual green candy, she has repented on my knee, she has wept with me and she has said, "Mummy and Daddy are very mad," "cause I say 'damn' and 'prune stones,' Mummy said Daddy taught me, Daddy, he say, Mummy,

He taught me. Funny people! So I asked with all the appearance of outraged virtue that I could summon: "Where did you ever hear that had, bad word? Who ever said it?" "Daddy said it," the little girl replied and then, after a pause: "Mummy said it. Daddy said it, and (imagine my embarrassment) you said it, too!" Thus the whole neighborhood, having sadly underestimated the little girl's powers of hearing and imitation, is in deepest disgrace.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
 MAY 15, 1906
 (From The Times Files)

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Moderate or fresh southerly wind, chiefly cloudy and cool, with showers.

Second to arrive in the order of the new Nippon Yusen Kaisha schedule, the steamship Tango Maru reached the outer wharf from Japan at an early hour this morning. The ship has never been here before, and her appearance created considerable interest this morning.

The water carnival to be held at the George on the evening of May 28, in connection with the Victoria Day celebration, promises to be one of the pleasantest and prettiest features of the season. Very little is known of the arrangements for this affair, the committee in charge having been working quietly and in conjunction with local officials of the B.C. Electric Railway Company.

For the second time in the long history of Methodism in British Columbia the annual conference of the church will be held next year in the interior of the province.

The new wharf that it is proposed to erect at the foot of Ward Street, nearly adjoining the James Bay causeway, will render unsightly a portion of the waterfront the city has gone to great expense to beautify.

The report comes from the north that the steamer Mount Royal has met with an accident, and may have to come to Victoria for repairs. If the information is correct the Skeena will now have only the steamer Pheasant to handle the big travel that is heading in that direction.

 Letters addressed to the Editor and intended for publication must be short and legibly written. The longer an article the more the chance of its being lost. APPRECIATION
 To the Editor:—At our annual meeting held on April 28 I was asked to convey to you the following resolution, in which I, as superintendent, heartily concur:

"The Board of the Columbia Coast Mission views with great appreciation the valuable aid The Victoria Daily Times has rendered the mission during the past year."

NANAIMO SOCCER FEAST
 To the Sports Editor:—Nanaimo is having a real soccer competition on May 22, 24 and 25, for the May Day celebration. On Saturday St. Andrew's and St. Saviour's play; on Sunday Nanaimo City and the Royals play; on Monday the winners of Saturday and Sunday meet for first and second prizes, and after that game the two losers of Saturday and Sunday games play off for third and fourth prizes. The prize amount to $750 for football alone, so this should gladden the hearts of soccer fans all over the Island. The Pacific Coast League is putting up a good brand of soccer this season. As an old Victoria man, I would like to see all soccer fans get in the old bus and take a trip up to Nanaimo to see some good football, especially as there is not much doing in Victoria this year. There are other sports as well, including a first-class wrestling bout, in which two well-known men will meet. So let us help Nanaimo put it over, as it is a real sporting town, considering times are not very good just now. Come and see the Nanaimo youngsters play football.

EGGS AND GASOLINE

To the Editor:—I used to drive into Victoria from the farm and use chicken eggs would net me enough cash to buy two gallons of gasoline. Now, from two dozen eggs I don't get enough cash to buy even one gallon of gasoline.

In fact, this week at the new low egg prices, it takes three dozen No. 1 fresh eggs to buy one gallon of gasoline. Mr. Dickie and Mr. Finkett and Dr. Toimie said they were going to improve conditions for us Vancouver Islanders. On the egg-gasoline basis we suburbanites are now just as times worse off, and I don't see anything that these gentlemen are trying to do to make good their promises.

The only man who is doing anything is Jones and he is asking the Hudson's Bay to be hit harder than ever with his new one per cent tax.

SAANICH POULTRY WOMAN.

SWIMMING GALA

To the Editor:—Now that the children's gala is over, we should like to express our sincere thanks through this column to the following people who helped in their various ways to make this gala the splendid success it was and to The Times for co-operation and publicity, particularly to Mr. Arthur Stott for his personal interest and helpfulness; to the donors of prizes our gratitude is also due; to Mr. W. T. Johnston for their kind helpfulness in presenting prizes; to Mr. Archie McKinnon and Mr. B. Stanyon for their extremely strenuous afternoon in judging events and their duties; to our co-workers at the Crystal Garden for their ungrudging assistance both to ourselves and to the children during the past six weeks; and lastly, to the children themselves who gave us their love and confidence during their lessons and displayed such wonderful enthusiasm at the gala. (This incident was very gratifying to us, their teachers), and who made it possible for us to have the privilege of conducting the biggest children's gala of this kind ever seen in Victoria.

MARY AND FRED ELLISON.

REAFFIRMATION OF DOUGLAS FIR IN B.C.

To the Editor:—Much has been said upon this subject, but as far as the general public is aware, little has been done beyond the establishment of a nursery near New Westminster. However, there is no doubt that the Douglas fir has collected volumes of information regarding the matter from which a policy may be devised when the government is prepared to tackle the problem instead of merely talking about it.

We read about other countries having established systems of reforestation, and people say, why can't we do so, without stopping to consider (Concluded on Page 14).

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY TO HAVE BUSY WEEK-END

Juniors' Concert Saturday; Adjudicators' Recital On Sunday

The Victoria Musical Art Society, after a year of exceptional activity, is bringing its season to a close with some interesting and brilliant events. On Saturday evening the juvenile branch of the society will give their recital at 8 o'clock.

On Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock the society is sponsoring one of the most brilliant programmes offered in Victoria for a very long time, when Harold Samuel, noted British pianist, will give a recital, playing groups of Bach, Chopin, Brahms and Debussy, and will be joined in the recital by Plunket Greene, Irish baritone, and internationally famous song interpreter.

It is indeed rare to have two such outstanding artists appear on the same programme, a programme of such engaging nature that it ought to be taken advantage of by every piano and vocal student, as well as those who enjoy music interpreted by celebrated artists.

On Monday night the society will hold its first annual meeting at 8 o'clock, when it is hoped the members of the society will be present in large numbers, as many important matters will be discussed, and election of officers will take place.

A delightful musical programme has been arranged to take place immediately after the meeting and will include the Oriental curtain-raiser, "Der Aser," by Rubenstein, arranged by Mrs. Laura de Turckynowicz. Miss Dorothy Hartree, L.A.B., will sing a group of songs, and Miss Dorothy Morton will give piano solos, and dancing will wind up the evening.

Refreshments, for which tickets may be had at Fletcher Brothers will be served during the evening, and all those who have taken part on the club programmes during the year will be guests of the society on Monday night, but there will be no other guest tickets issued for any of these events. Those wishing to join the society may get membership cards at Fletcher Brothers at half the usual membership fee.

The three concerts will take place at the Shrine Auditorium, and as the juvenile recital on Saturday evening is an extra recital there will be a small admission fee charged to members and non-members, except those taking part in the programme.

Bazaar For Poor Clares Convent Was Successful

Rt. Rev. Bishop G. C. Murray yesterday afternoon opened the bazaar in Amphion Hall, which under the co-operation of Mrs. W. H. Munroe, was held in aid of the Poor Clares convent, the Willow, which attracted the interest of all the members of the Catholic Women's League, each subdivision contributing members to assist in the booths and with the refreshments and programme.

The various stall holders were as follows: Mrs. Graves, in charge of the stall of devotional objects; Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, assisted by Miss Whitaker, in charge of the fancy work made by the Sisters of St. Clare's monastery; Mrs. Gourlay, assisted by Mrs. Sealing and Miss Peggy Gourlay, home cooking stall; Mrs. W. W. Reines, Mrs. C. Sabin and Mrs. E. Vernon Thompson, candy booth; Mrs. Windough, twenty-five-cent stall; Mrs. J. K. Cornwall, assisted by Miss Cates, miscellaneous stall; Mrs. J. A. J. McKenna and Mrs. Booth, cold drinks; Mrs. W. C. McMahon, prizes for the contests; Mrs. Munroe, bingo; Mrs. Hourigan and Mrs. Burns, with an active committee convened the refreshments, which included tea on both Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and supper last evening. All the stalls were most attractively decorated.

In the bridge tournament on Wednesday, the prize lovely bridge lamp, was won by Mrs. F. M. Bryant, and winners of other prizes during Wednesday and Thursday were Rev. Father Trueman of Vancouver College, Vancouver, who won the gold lamp; Mrs. Hinde, silver cigarette case; Mrs. Webb, Stannard, Avenue, picture; Miss Nora O'Connor, box of stationery; Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, doll and carriage; Miss E. MacDowell, basket of candy; Miss Agnes Guy, vanity set; Ella Hood, box of candy; Mrs. A. McDermott, leather hand bag.

BROUGHT BACK JUST HEAPS OF THINGS

She just picked up a few little truffles abroad. A dress here, a hat there, you know. But the combined result of Marlene Dietrich's shopping expedition was the varied assortment of plain and fancy luggage shown here at the German film star arrived in New York aboard the liner Bremen. It must have been a busy day for the customs inspectors.

YOUR BABY and MINE Society

Eighty lay delegates, with their wives and lady friends, who are attending the B.C. Conference of the United Church here, were entertained to a supper in the hall of the First United Church yesterday evening, the feast being served by members of the Women's Guild of First Church. Mrs. A. S. Christie, Mrs. J. S. Conibear, Mrs. J. W. Clark, Mrs. J. Bunn and Mrs. D. Fair were the committee in charge, being assisted by other members of the guild. The tables were attractively decorated with flowers.

The Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club entertained at a very successful bridge party in their clubrooms, Langley Street, yesterday evening with sixteen tables in play. The rooms presented a charming appearance, the lounge being most effectively arranged with red roses, while blue iris and golden broom were attractively employed in the arrangement of the assembly room. Miss Morrison was general convenor, while Miss Jessie Fraser was responsible for the decorations, and Miss Ada Lacey for refreshments. The president, Mrs. E. O. Maynard, welcomed the guests on arrival. Among those who entertained parties were Miss Kate McLaren, Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. C. W. Bradshaw, Mrs. E. Foggon, Miss A. M. Wigley, Miss Macrae, Mrs. H. P. Hodges, Mrs. Lampert, Miss Margaret Clay, Miss Jennie Shaw and others.

MALE CHOIR HAS ANNUAL SUPPER

F. Tupman, Leader, Deplores Lack of Competition in Musical Festival

The Victoria Male Choir followed up Musical Festival Week with its annual supper at the Dominion Hotel, on Wednesday evening. President T. Scott occupied the chair. A musical programme was interspersed with two-minute talks on choir matters by several members.

Of special interest was the announcement by the president of the names of the members who had met with success in the Musical Festival. These were: Frank Spooner, winner of the tenor solo class; P. C. Routley, trainer of the Cloverdale School Choir, and H. S. Hurn, with Victoria West School Choir.

W. P. Roberts eulogized the work of the conductor, Frank Tupman, and the latter was greeted with musical honors when he rose to acknowledge. Mr. Tupman deplored the lack of competition in the male choir class in the festival and hoped a way would be found to remedy this state of affairs.

In addition to the programme by members of the choir several items of a very high order were given by Mr. Barker, elocutionist. Those who took part in the programme were as follows: L. O'Neill, A. J. Bishop, A. W. Lucking, George Burns, Thos. Scott, F. Tupman, F. E. Rowley, J. J. Matheson, W. R. Fargiter, Reginald, Clarke, W. R. Woods and Mrs. Harmaworth.

The quartette competition was won by W. P. Roberts, T. Hammond, J. Jones and F. Hall.

Attractively decorated. In the bridge tournament on Wednesday, the prize lovely bridge lamp, was won by Mrs. F. M. Bryant, and winners of other prizes during Wednesday and Thursday were Rev. Father Trueman of Vancouver College, Vancouver, who won the gold lamp; Mrs. Hinde, silver cigarette case; Mrs. Webb, Stannard, Avenue, picture; Miss Nora O'Connor, box of stationery; Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, doll and carriage; Miss E. MacDowell, basket of candy; Miss Agnes Guy, vanity set; Ella Hood, box of candy; Mrs. A. McDermott, leather hand bag.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

700 BY WEA SERVICE INC.

Parents now recognize the need of children for the companionship of other children. True, there are some who can make a fairly good job of bringing up a child away from the contact of the crowd, in the company of adults, and there are even a few good parents whose children never even go to school but receive their education in the home at the hands of a governess or tutor. But they are very few.

I happen to have known some very excellent people who were brought up in this manner, and who, in the world until they were almost at maturity, but I have often wondered how they would fare if left to their own resources. Under it all are their own well prepared for life in general as the people who have rubbed shoulders with their fellow-men from the cradle.

As few of us are hand-picked so to speak, this word of mine must concern the others. And for that matter, the mothers of that class which formerly segregated its children are now recognizing the necessity of mixing. It is commonly known now that our better instincts and our mental alertness, too, depend largely on contacts.

Take generosity, for instance. Generosity does not mean always giving a bite out of an apple. It means giving up one's own way in many things.

Children have to learn to give up at times, when playing with other children. If they don't they soon find out that the spirit of the crowd is against them. This "spirit of the crowd" in childhood represents the spirit of the whole world later on and is more effective than all the telling they get at home.

A LESSON IN LIFE. Suppose in the little group there is one child who is not so well, who cannot run so fast, who needs help. What a lesson to our own little friend this is in sympathy, kindness and tolerance. Also in tact—for he learns, if the crowd is the right sort, that the other little fellow must never have his feelings hurt or know that he is to be pitied.

There will be the rough and ready children in the crowd, too. Very well, that is good for him. He will learn that life isn't any pillow-fight and he must stand up for his own rights now and then. He develops mettle and will.

Games sharpen his mentality and speed up his muscles. He learns to co-operate in a little club, for instance. The solitary child is at an unfair disadvantage and needs other children as much as he needs food. The all-round person must get his experiences early in life.

L.O.B.A. Meeting—Queen of the Island, L.O.B.A., held their regular meeting on Wednesday, May 13, at Mrs. Laing in the chair, assisted by Deputy Master Mrs. Doherty. There was a good attendance of officers, members and welcome visitors. Applications for membership were received, initiation taking place. The provincial grand mistress, sister Burke of Nanaimo, paid the lodge visit and was received with grand honors, also Sister Doane, P.O.P.M. and Sister Trousdale, P.O.S. and honorary members. The grand mistress gave a very instructive and interesting report on the L.O.B.A. lodges of British Columbia and the True Blue and Orange Orphanage, and urged the sisters to remember the orphans. The grand mistress complimented the officers and the drill team on the able manner in which they conducted their work. Good reports from various committees were received. During the evening the grand mistress was presented with a purse from the officers and members. Sister Goff, Purple Star, L.O.B.A., kindly presented at the piano and was presented with a bouquet of flowers. After the meeting a banquet was held and all spent a happy evening.

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

CHILDREN NEED NUTRITIOUS AND ADEQUATE DIET

One of the penalties of poverty is the necessity for filling children up even though the "filling" chosen has no food value. There are adults whose idea of food values is so poor that they think because coffee satisfies them, it must do so much for the children. Children must have growth foods, not just a temporary watery filler. Coffee cannot supply anything but a warm, pleasantly-flavored drink, no more nutritious than the spoonful of sugar and cream in it.

BREAKFAST IS IMPORTANT

Some benighted adult holds the baby on her lap at the table and offers him sips of coffee, amused by his apparent delight. It is just a step from that to the child's demand for coffee instead of his blander and less highly flavored milk. There is nothing harmful to the average adult in a moderate consumption of tea or coffee. They are delightful drinks, and those of us who indulge enjoy them enormously. Either is entirely out of place in the diet of children. Children need nourishment at each meal. It is literally impossible for a child to get sufficient nutritious food unless he eats properly at all three meals. His breakfast is an important and vital part of his whole diet and must contain a nutritious quite as well as filling foods.

Coffee has a stimulating effect with a depressing after-effect. That is quite to be expected for "what goes up must come down." The confirmed coffee drinker recognizes this effect.

For he says with conviction, "If I miss my coffee, I have a headache by 10 o'clock," or "I'm simply not awake until I get my coffee."

ONE-SIDED DIET

There are children who grow fat and flabby largely on coffee and bread. This limited diet provides them with starch, perhaps some butter, and the little nourishment there is in the cream and sugar added to the coffee. It furnishes, if eaten in sufficient quantities, a high proportion of calories all of one type, sugar and starch and an imperfect type of protein. The apparent increase in weight blinds some parents to the fact that their children are undernourished. They receive little or none of the growth elements and the protective elements, but it is possible for them to fatten on quantities of bread and coffee.

The parent, conscientious about feeding her children and making sure that their diet contains all the proper foods outlined for growing children, would not dream of substituting flavored water for the essential cups of milk. Where there is such a uniformity of opinion as that children must have milk in addition to their regular solid foods to have an adequate and protective diet, she knows that she cannot assume the responsibility of going counter to this advice. We can only hope that the parent who bolsters up the child with quantities of bread and coffee is ignorant of her duty, not deliberately indifferent to it.

To-morrow: "Child Finds Whining an Effective Weapon."

Horoscope

SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1931. Benefic aspects dominate to-day, according to the astrologer, and especially fortunate for public personages and public affairs.

The early morning hours are read as auspicious for those who seek employment, but good luck will come easiest to all earnest workers. It is a favorable way under which to open new shops or extend one's business connections.

The stars seem to promise to America a decided advance toward prosperity and success in many great enterprises. While the signs presage much activity there will be envy and jealousy apparent in large organizations, including those of political character.

Under this rule of the stars individuality will be strong and will be exercised extensively to that serious differences of opinion will be obvious. Heads of government as well as leaders in business and professional life are today subject to the best planetary influences. As the summer advances, the public mind will be less disturbed and ideas will be clearer regarding many national issues, the seers prophesy.

If the stars are wisely interpreted persons of every class should watch their mental processes, since there will be a tendency toward pessimism and criticism detrimental to harmony and progress. The Moon to-day is in a place making for determination and the will to succeed. The young are subject to stimulating and even inspiring, hasty forces that seem to indicate brilliant careers for many who leave college this year.

Persons whose birthday it is have the augury of a year in which prosperity is forecast. Journeys may bring good fortune. Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly happy and successful. The subjects of this sign usually have great foresight and ability to lead.

Persons who have celebrated it as a birthday include P. D. Armour, 1832, merchant; Elizabeth Peabody, 1804, educator.

Another Class of Tadpoles now Happily Swimming after Times Campaign

Lloyd Cann stumbles on the Threshold of Baseball's Hall of Fame

Haverford College has Robot Timer that Clocks Runners to Hundredth of Second

ONCE again a new crop of young swimmers has been turned out through the co-operation of The Times and the Crystal Garden and happy youngsters, who two months ago were almost frightened to get their heads wet, are now cheerfully plunging into the water and enjoying the fun aquatic sports can give them.

On Wednesday the host of parents, friends and play-fellows who watched the Tadpoles go through their paces in a miniature race, were both entertained and instructed by the splendid progress made by the little tots.

But not all the fearless little boys and girls who showed such confidence in their prowess in the waves were quite as stable as they might have been.

Four instructors, with vigilant eyes peeled for youngsters in distress, plunged into the water to rescue those who thought they were in difficulties.

Whether the total develop into champions or not the efforts of those who assisted in the campaign will be fully repaid, in as much as the pupils have been introduced to a sport which will bring them much pleasure.

Lloyd Cann, speed ball twirler for the Sons of Canada, stumbled on the threshold of baseball's hall of fame on Wednesday evening when he pitched against the Tillamooks in the Senior Amateur League fixture at the Royal Athletic Park.

For eight innings, the Son's mound man burned in batters that retired his opponents hitless.

In the ninth he allowed two hits which brought in the lone winning run.

It was a tough break for Lloyd, since the average evening game only goes seven innings.

While we are on the subject, let us turn to Leo Holden, the hero of the pitching duel. Leo went to the box for the second time this season and turned in a better performance than he did in his sterling first victory. He should be great guns this year if he maintains his record.

Humor is frequently cruel. The fans got their biggest laugh in the game when Holden bounced a fast pitch off Cab Collins' head for a wild whiffing. Cab was one of the few who didn't see the joke.

There was a time the Argentine was known chiefly for its tango dancers and a certain Angel, Wild Bull of the Pampas. But now they have left those fields for golf. Marco Churio, leader in Thursday's play in the Southport professional tournament is only one of the big golf men from the South American republic.

Speculation is rife over Canada's chances of advancing past the first round in the Davis Cup play. The question seems to resolve itself into whether or not the shields will withstand the gnawing of the Beaver country boys.

A chap in the life-insurance business has come forward to try to prevent the heavyweight bout between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling from being staged in Cleveland. As a word of warning, we might say we tried to stop a street fight once and the dentist's bill took a long time to pay off.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Haverford College has designed a new automatic timer for track events. It measures down to one one-hundredth of a second. The sound of the shot which starts the race enters a microphone on the machine which starts an electric clock.

Across the finish line of the track a beam of light is directed into a sensitive photoelectric cell. When the runner crosses the shaft of light, intercepting it, the clock is automatically stopped.

The light beam can be intercepted only by the body of the runner, the shaft being too wide to permit such interception by a runner's hand or arm.

City and Jokers Clash To-morrow In Soccer Match

In the semi-final of the Peden Cup football series, Jokers, winners of the Milne and Totmie Cups, will clash with the Victoria City eleven to-morrow afternoon at Victoria Hill Park. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

The victors to-morrow will meet Victoria West in the final for the Peden Cup. Previous showings the Jokers are slight favorites to take the match. They will line up as follows: Children: Leggett, Carmichael, Neal, Campbell, Storer, Watson, Bunyan, Anderson, McKay and Rogers.

Defeats A. Compston In Exciting Finish To Win Golf Prize

Turns in Total Score of 287, One Below That of Fellow Countryman to Capture His First Major Laurels; Horton Smith and Percy Alliss Tied

Southport, Eng., May 15—Henry Cotton, young British professional, who threatened to quit the Southport tournament yesterday when he carded a 77, did a record 68 on his third round to-day to take the lead with a 215 total for 54 holes, three better than Horton Smith, Missouri professional, and won the classic $7,500 professional tournament here with a total of 287. Horton Smith of Missouri, trailing Cotton by one stroke at the end of the third round of the $7,500 Southport professional golf tournament, finished his fourth and last round with a 72 and a 72-hole total of 290.

TILDEN TAKES TENNIS SERIES FROM RICHARDS

Captures Third Straight Match to Lay Claim to World's Pro Championship

Bill Tilden

Philadelphia, May 15—William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia defeated Vincent Richards of New York, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2, in the third match of their professional indoor tennis series, played yesterday at the Arena before 3,000 spectators.

It was Tilden's third straight victory, clinching the series. Tilden proved himself again Richards' master in every department of play. He ran "Vinnie" ragged in long base line duels, manoeuvred him out of position with forcing shots, passed him with placements, and caught him flat-footed with ace after ace. In the sixth game of the final set, Big Bill won three of his four points with unreturnable serves.

The second set, which Richards won, Tilden did not give up without a bitter struggle, rallying to deuce the score at 4-4 and 5-5, after having slumped into a deficiency of 1-1.

Tilden, in turn, had to fight off Richards' rally to capture the third set, but the fourth was literally a rout. Richards' master in every department of play, he ran "Vinnie" ragged in long base line duels, manoeuvred him out of position with forcing shots, passed him with placements, and caught him flat-footed with ace after ace. In the sixth game of the final set, Big Bill won three of his four points with unreturnable serves.

In a preliminary to yesterday evening's battle, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle defeated Elmer Fere, Chicago, 6-4, 8-6.

HELENE MADISON AND TEAM LEADS IN P.N.W. MEET

W.A.C. Takes First Day's Races With Ease to Score Fifty-three Points

Seattle, May 15—Scoring fifty-three points and pulverizing three northwest records here yesterday evening the Washington Athletic Club of Seattle took a big lead in the two-day Pacific Northwest indoor swimming championships and was virtually a cinch to win the meet to-night.

Headed by Helene Madison, world's greatest woman swimmer, the W.A.C. aquatic stars topped first place in all seven events.

Other teams scored as follows: Ideal Pool, Tacoma, thirteen; Multnomah Athletic Club, Portland, nine; Portland Bath, Portland, two; Crystal Pool, Seattle, two; Spokane Athletic Club, Spokane, one and Moore Pool, Seattle, one.

Helene took three seconds off her own northwest mark in the 100-yard freestyle when she won the event in sixty-one seconds.

JENKINS TWIRLS TIMES TO GREAT WIN IN SOFTBALL

Newsies Take Right End of 2 to 1 Count Against Colwood Nine

Todds Take Fourth Straight to Maintain Lead in Loop

While the league-leading Todds slashed out an easy 15-1 victory over the Astors and the Jokers continued pursuit of the top-notchers by swamping the Moose 18-7, The Times and Colwood engaged in one of the prettiest softball encounters ever staged in the Westholme loop. The Times emerged on the long end of a 2-1 count.

The veteran Sid Jenkins, who has been the mainstay of The Times chucking staff for the last three seasons, made his first appearance of the year in the box and bested Bill Norris in a bitterly fought pitchers' duel. Colwood sent one runner across the plate in the first inning, but after that only a few men got past second base. The newsies registered in the third to tie the score and Caddell crossed the plate in the fifth with the winning run. The game was played at Beacon Hill, lasting only fifty minutes for the full nine innings.

PROTEST ALLOWED ON RUN
The Astors were impatient against the airtight fielding of Todds at Victoria West. Their lone run was registered in the second count. Todds shot three runners across in the first session, three in the fourth and then ran wild in the sixth for eight more to clinch things. The Astors protested on a score by Todds in the second frame and this was allowed by Umpire Spencer after the game as the runner crossed the plate on the third out. The score stood 1-0 in favor of the Jokers.

Scoring almost at will, the Jokers were never behind against the Moose at Hampton Road. Faced with a large deficit in the ninth, the Moose made a game rally but after three failures, it died with two men on base.

FIGHT FOR LEAD
Next Monday the Jokers will have a chance to draw level with Todds for the league lead. The squads meet at Victoria West.

Canadian Scottish swamped the City Service, 28 to 15, in a free-hitting fixture in the city "C" division.

WIND DECISION
Ostron, O., May 15—The "Frisco" Youngstown lightweight, won a newspaper decision over Eddie Egan of Chicago, in ten rounds here yesterday. Knocked down in the fourth, Anderson came back to carry the last two rounds.

KENTUCKY DERBY EXPECTED TO SETTLE OLD ARGUMENT BETWEEN THREE-YEAR-OLDS

Mate and Twenty Grand Favored to Capture Rich Blue Grass Turf Classic; First Honors Figured to Be Taken by Eastern Mounts; Fifteen Nominated to Face Barrier

By ALAN GOULD

Louisville, Ky., May 15—They like their horse races down here in the Blue Grass, under any conditions, so even the old line of Kentucky turfmen to-day accepted the prospect that, barring an upset, it will be an all-eastern battle for three-year-old honors in the fifty-seventh running of the Classic Derby.

East or west, good times or bad, to-morrow's blue ribbon event of the American turf figured to be just that—a horse race and perhaps as excitingly close as any Kentucky Derby since the war.

Two years ago Clyde Van Dusen, the little mud horse, outrashed the pride of the Blue Grass, Blue Larkspur, and won last year, in another downpour, Gallant Fox beat the best the west had to offer. To-morrow, not one, but two cock eastern thoroughbreds, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, and Albert C. Rodwick's Mate, are favored to renew their racing feud in a fight for the winner's wealth of roses and close to $200,000 in prize money.

They probably will have fair weather for this turf duel, whether or not it fulfills the expectations of a crowd of perhaps 50,000 spectators, including Charles Curtis, the vice-president of the United States, and guest of honor.

MAY STAGE COMEBACK
C. V. (Sonny) Whitney's one-time Derby favorite, Equipage, may stage a comeback after several disappointments. Somehow the west may realize its fondest hopes and crash through with such a contender as Thomas E. Mueller's Pittsburgher, the "Big Train," Griffin Watkins' Inco, or Charles T. Fisher's Sweep All. There would not be a horse race if there were not these hopes and fears and arguments, but the big debate to-day centered on the chances that Twenty Grand will have the stuff to turn the tables on Mate, the Prekasine victory, over the longer route of one mile and a quarter—at equal weights, 120 pounds, and with an even break in the racing luck.

"It has been the big argument since they were two-year-old stars. It may not be settled to-morrow. There is not only the chance of the dogs being upset, but there are also big tests to come, even though the Derby winner will wear the three-year-old crown, at least for the time being.

Twenty Grand, the handsome bay, aristocrat with the slender mane, looked like a million to his backers yesterday in clinching off an impressive trial in 1:43 3-4 for the mile and 1-87 second up, for the mile and an eight. It showed the colt to be in grand shape and, overshadowed a half-dozen other good workouts by such contenders as Mate, Inco and Walter J. Salmon's Ladder, which was third in the Prekasine.

KNOCKED OUT ONCE
Of course, if Campolo should succeed in landing solidly another story would be told. Shackey knocked out Loughran in the third round of their match in 1929 with a right-hand shot on the head. Other rivals have had Tommy on the floor, although none but Shackey could keep him there.

FIFTEEN TO START
Louisville, Ky., May 15.—Fifteen three-year-olds were nominated to-day for the fifty-seventh running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs to-morrow. They are:

Don Leon, Up, Pittsburgher, Twenty Grand, Mate, Boys Howdy, Anchovy, Avelin, Surf Board, Prince D'Amour, Zepherine, True Monso, Spanish Fly, Sweep All, Ladder and Inco.

Finalists of Four Years Ago To Meet Again In B.C. Golf

Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Vancouver, Defending Champion, and Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Victoria, Battling at Colwood To-day for Championship; in Final Four Years Ago Over Same Course, Local Woman Won in a Snowstorm; Mrs. Hutchings Defeated Mrs. Sweeny, Vancouver, 6 and 5, and Mrs. Sayward-Wilson Downed Mrs. Philbrick, 7 and 6, in Yesterday's Semis

Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Vancouver, defeated Mrs. S. C. Sweeny, Vancouver, 6 and 5.

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Victoria, defeated Mrs. R. B. Philbrick, Victoria, 7 and 6.

By the cleanest of victories, Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Vancouver, defending champion, and Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Victoria, entered the finals of the B.C. women's golf championship at the Colwood Golf Club yesterday afternoon and are battling over a thirty-six-hole route to-day for the coveted title. It is a case of history repeating itself, for four years ago these same players contested the championship at Colwood in a snowstorm, and Mrs. Sayward-Wilson won. There is much interest over these inter-city struggles for the title.

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson and Mrs. Philbrick having one of her off-days in their semi-final match. In addition, the winner was not giving anything away. She was out in 41, while her opponent took 50. Mrs. Hutchings started off by taking the first seven holes, halving the eighth and winning the ninth, eighth down and nine to play. Mrs. Philbrick's position was hopeless, but she made a gallant stand. She won the tenth, halved the eleventh and nearly won the twelfth when her long putt rimmed the cup. The half was the match for Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, 7 and 6.

PLAYED STRONG GAME
The winner's golf was strong in every department and there are many who hold high hopes for her to-day. On the other hand, Mrs. Philbrick was away off and never seemed settled down. The medal scores follow:

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson—41
In—506

Mrs. Philbrick—50
Out—566/476458—50
In—556

Mrs. Hutchings was out in 42 against Mrs. Sweeny and was two up on her opponent. Mrs. Sweeny put up a stiff fight, halving the first four holes 5533, losing the fifth and sixth, and halving the next three in 455. On the incoming nine Mrs. Hutchings drew rapidly away from Mrs. Sweeny, winning the tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth to become 8 up and 5 to play.

SCORES FOLLOW:
Mrs. Hutchings—42
Out—553/55455—42

Mrs. Sweeny—45
Out—553/55455—44

VANCOUVER FINALISTS
First flight finalists are two Vancouver women, Mrs. R. P. Baker and Mrs. A. McAllister. Mrs. Baker scored a notable 2 up victory over Mrs. Hew Patterson, runner-up to Mrs. Hutchings in the medal round. Five down and six to go. Mrs. Patterson made a great rally and was only down one down going to the eighteenth. Mrs. Baker made a mistake on this hole, winning it with a birdie 4.

Special contests yesterday included local driving, approaching and putting. Mrs. Hutchings won the driving aggregate with an average of 217 2-3 yards, and also had the longest drive, 243 yards. As she could only take one of the prizes, she chose the aggregate one and honors for the longest drive went to Miss Norah King, Vancouver, with a shot of 217 yards.

Aggregating honors for approaching and putting went to Mrs. G. Wismer, Vancouver, who placed three balls at an average of 23 feet 6 3-4 inches from the hole. Mrs. Sayward-Wilson had the closest approach, 4 feet 8 inches from the pin.

Mrs. Hew Patterson, with 34, and Miss Ruth Jones, with 38, both local players, won the putting prizes.

ONE-TIME STAR PITCHER DIES
Memphis, Tenn., May 15.—Shane's (Dodd) Newton, former major league player and two decades ago rated as one of the great pitchers in baseball, died at his home here yesterday evening.

Newton was fifty years old. He reigned for the season to-morrow. The game is reported to be a seamless world's record at 10.4 seconds. Tolson made that time in Vancouver 1929.

STAR WINGMAN TO PLAY HERE WITH ENGLISH

Leonard Barry, Outside Left, Noted as a Goal Getter; Has Wide Experience

LEONARD BARRY

Victoria will have a chance to see one of England's best left-wingers when the touring British soccer team plays here next month in the person of Leonard Barry.

Born at Stenilton, the borough of Nottingham, he took to football early, as he was surrounded by the atmosphere of the game. When Horace Ben-shall's career was closing, Barry was born in a football sense. He first played in the Midland League for Notts County, as an amateur there. Next he was attracted to the Royal Air Force and there his career was highly appreciated. He remained a registered amateur with Notts County, who looked forward to his completion of adventure up aloft.

In October, 1928, he played for the amateurs against the professionals at Chelsea—and for him to do so, Lieutenant Kenneth Hegan, was placed at outside right. Barry was a good raider that day, as arresting as Tunstall.

MADE INTERNATIONAL TEAM
Within a month that amateur forward line became England's attack against their Irish brethren, who were beaten. The amateurs were anxious to keep Barry in their ranks, but Notts County converted him to professional in 1924—and he jumped into action in the First Division. He remained with Notts until September 28, 1927, when he was allowed to go to Leicester City, the consolation fee to Notts County being about $16,500.

In a better class of football, Barry improved. No one could help it with "Tony" Duncan, the ex-Rail Road in the team. Barry has a nice style of moving, considerable pace, fine control of the ball and, of course, indomitable courage as all armies. He is five feet six and a half inches tall and weighs 158 pounds.

GERMAN SHADES WORLD'S RECORD FOR 100 METRES

Regensburg, Germany, May 15.—Helmuth Koeniger, German, titleholder at 100 and 200 meters, yesterday ran the 100 meters in 10.3 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the listed world's record. He has a breeze at his back, making acceptance of the record doubtful.

The athletic almanac lists Charles Paddock and Eddie Tolson, both of the United States, as holders of the world's 100-meter record at 10.4 seconds. Tolson made that time in Vancouver 1929.

TO OPEN COURTS

The Armadale Tennis Club will open its courts for the season to-morrow. The grass is reported to be a seamless world's record at 10.4 seconds. Tolson made that time in Vancouver 1929.

Seattle Golf Stars Will Meet Oak Bay Here To-morrow

To Play First Half Of Annual Series At Victoria Club Links

Bon Stein, Steil, R. E. Campbell and M. M. McElwaine Lead Off Men in Team Which Will Oppose Locals, Led by Jack Matson, Alec. Watson, Art Beasley and Alan Taylor; Series One of Oldest on Coast

The first half of the annual home-and-home match between teams of the Victoria Golf Club and the Seattle Golf Club will be played at the Oak Bay links all day to-morrow. The series between these two teams is probably the oldest on the coast, having been played regularly since 1903 with the exception of the years, 1915 to 1919. Seattle has won thirteen matches and Victoria nine. One was a draw.

In to-morrow's play, singles will be held in the morning and best ball fourballs in the afternoon. In the morning singles the players will go out in fours to save time, and in the afternoon they are requested to start out as soon after lunch as possible.

FORDS LOSE TO ROSEBUDS

A batting rally in the third and consistent hitting in the fourth and sixth gave the Rosebuds, last year's junior champions, their first victory of the season over the Fords in the Twilight League fixture played at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening. The final score read 11 to 9.

"Doc" Todd relieved "Lefty" Rose in the latter blow up, but failed to keep the Buds from adding to their score. Johnny Murray went the route for the winners and was given good support by his field.

"Scotty" Scott, diminutive Rosebud, turned in a splendid performance at the bat to furnish one of the features of the evening.

"Come On In, The Water's Fine," Shout Happy Times Tadpoles

Above is a picture of some of the young boys and girls who thronged on Wednesday to the Crystal Garden for the gala which brought to a close the Second Annual Times Learn-to-Swim Campaign. The little tots seem to enjoy their dip and from the merry shouts and resounding splashes that echoed around the pool certainly did not find learning to swim difficult. Of the 500 who took the course, it is estimated between 350 and 400 are now able to look after themselves in the water.

Sad Sam Jones Leads Pitchers As Senators Beat Cleveland 5 to 4

Tightens Up With Runner on Third to Retire Side as Washington Continues Victorious Series Over Westerners; Athletics Win Sixth Straight; Rube Walberg Stars

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.

The Washington Senators had to go west to hit their stride in the American League pennant campaign. Playing against their strong eastern rivals, the Senators could get no better than an even break and were in fifth place when they set out for their intersectional battles.

In the west Washington has won four games out of five—only a fair performance compared to the clean sweep scored so far by the Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees—and has climbed up to third place. But Washington has been pitted against the two strongest western clubs, Cleveland and Detroit, while the Yanks and A's have been knocking over St. Louis and Chicago.

The fourth victory yesterday, a 5-4 triumph over Cleveland, did not alter the standing, but it did give Washington the lead in the league.

Samuel Jones won his third straight game, allowing only eight hits. Burnett's homer in the second inning brought the only Cleveland score.

The Athletics won their sixth straight game yesterday, defeating the Boston Red Sox, 5-2, on a fine pitching performance by Rube Walberg. The win enabled them to retain their lead of a few points over the Yankees.

Big Charley Ruffing added another great pitching performance to the list of this year's mound achievements and Lou Gehrig clouted his fifth and sixth homers of the year to lead the Yankee attack that brought a 14 to 2 victory over St. Louis.

Walberg won his fifth game for the champions against one loss. Al Simmons ended a possible pitching duel when he hit his sixth homer of the year in the fifth to join Gehrig at the top of the American League list and run the game for Vic Fraser. It was only the fourth time since 1901 that a no-hit win until the eighth when Lin Stort touched him for a single.

The Boston Red Sox, who have climbed from last place to sixth in their western tour, had only one good inning against Detroit, but that was enough for a 4 to 3 victory. The Sox got to Walter Hoyt for five hits and four runs in the sixth.

NATIONALS POSTPONED
Five National League games scheduled for yesterday were a complete loss as rain again swept the eastern sector, bringing the year's total of postponements up to 33 for the elder league.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
St. Louis, May 15.—Charlie Ruffing pitched a no-hit ball up to the eighth inning yesterday, while the Yankees hit hard to defeat the Browns, 14 to 2. Lou Gehrig hit two homers in the first two innings.

NEW YORK
St. Louis, May 15.—The Red Sox found themselves in a tight spot yesterday when they faced the Yankees at Yankee Stadium. The Sox were down 5 to 0 in the first inning, but they rallied in the second and third to tie the game.

DETROIT
Detroit, May 15.—The Red Sox found themselves in a tight spot yesterday when they faced the Yankees at Yankee Stadium. The Sox were down 5 to 0 in the first inning, but they rallied in the second and third to tie the game.

THE BIG SIX

Babe Ruth clouted his way back into the batting line of the Big Six and the major league race yesterday by hitting safely twice in four times at bat in the Yankees' rout of St. Louis. Ruth brought his average to .415, while Al Simmons slipped down to .400. Simmons hit his sixth homer of the season in four times up. Dale Alexander failed to connect in five attempts and lost his place among the American League leaders. Bob Fothergill of Chicago taking third at .385.

Rain again stopped the National League pennant leaders.

BODY SLAM WINS FOR MALCEWICZ AGAINST PINTA

Utica Wrestler Bounces New Yorker on Head to Win Bout in Vancouver

Lewis, Savoldi, George and Sonnenberg Win Other Features

Canadian Press
Vancouver, B.C., May 15.—A tough body slam proved too much for Stanley Pinta, New York grappler, in a feature wrestling match here yesterday evening and Joe Malcewicz, Utica panther, walked off with the decision, although each man had won one fall. The fall won by Malcewicz proved more potent, however, than that obtained by Pinta, because the latter was unable to continue to a decision after Malcewicz had hurled him to the mat. Pinta landed on his head and was completely out for a few minutes. When he regained consciousness he was in no condition to continue the proceedings and Malcewicz was awarded the decision.

Two other bouts on the programme ended in draws. In the semi-final Bob Kruse of Portland and Doc Meyers of Chicago, fought one-fall each, while in the first bout of the card Jack Fournier, Vancouver wrestler, and Bonnie Muir, husky Australian, went three rounds with neither obtaining a fall.

STRANGLER WINS
Kansas City, May 15.—"Strangler" Lewis, Los Angeles, defeated Dave Luther, Broken Bow, Neb., heavyweight, in two straight falls, 15-10 and 15-10, in a one-fall preliminary.

"Jumpline Joe" Savoldi, former Notre Dame football player, floored Count Emak Markovskiy, Hollywood, in 15.02 in a one-fall preliminary.

GEORGE WINS
Toronto, Ont., May 15.—"Don" George of Boston proved too good for "Bibber" McCoy on yesterday evening's wrestling card, winning two out of three falls. George lost the first fall, but took the next two to clinch the match.

DUBLIN, May 15.—G. Lyttleton Rogers, Ireland's number one temple player, yesterday defeated P. D. Spence, of South Africa, in the first match of their third-round series in the European some of Davis Cup play.

RED SOX WIN
Detroit, May 15.—The Red Sox found themselves in a tight spot yesterday when they faced the Yankees at Yankee Stadium. The Sox were down 5 to 0 in the first inning, but they rallied in the second and third to tie the game.

DETROIT
Detroit, May 15.—The Red Sox found themselves in a tight spot yesterday when they faced the Yankees at Yankee Stadium. The Sox were down 5 to 0 in the first inning, but they rallied in the second and third to tie the game.

WILL REACH GOLF FINALS AT UPLANDS

Play to Proceed Sunday in Annual Championship; Lower Flights to Be Decided

Finals will be reached in the championship and first flights at the Uplands Golf Club as a result of play to take place there Sunday. The winners of all other flights will be decided at the same time.

With eight players still remaining in the race for the championship, there appears little likelihood of another Harold Brynjolfsson-Bob Morrison final being averted. Morrison, who was medalist, has of late found Brynjolfsson his "Jonah" in match play finals.

The long-hitting Bob won the qualifying rounds in both the city and the British Columbia championships, but Harold won both titles. Brynjolfsson is defending champion in the Uplands event and is out not only to defend his laurels but to capture his third major title in a season.

On Sunday Brynjolfsson plays W. H. "Bill" Newcombe in the morning, and if successful, will meet the winner of the "Scotty" MacKenzie-Dave Randall match in the afternoon. Morrison will try conclusions with the veteran H. O. English in the morning round and the winner will play the winner of the Doc Westwood-Al Craig encounter.

24 SAWMILLS MERGE SALES

Seattle, May 15.—The organization of the Puget Sound Associated Mills, a co-operative selling and merchandising company for handling lumber shipments to the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and adjacent backhaul territory, was completed yesterday, according to an announcement today by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association. The company is expected to begin active operation June 15.

The new company represents twenty-four mills in Everett, Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Shelton and Port Angeles, all of whom are regular shippers in the intercoastal lumber trade. The new company will handle normally about 30,000,000 feet of lumber per month, and will actively push the sale of all products of its member mills in the eastern market reached through the Panama Canal.

At the meeting yesterday of lumber manufacturers forming Puget Sound Associated Mills, C. H. Kreinbaum of the Reed Mill Company at Shelton, Washington, was elected president of the new company; A. E. McJannet, of the Clark Lumber Company at Everett, vice-president; B. J. Sharp, of the Mountain Lumber Company at Tacoma, as secretary, and W. B. Nettleton, of the Nettleton Lumber Company, Seattle, as treasurer.

The board of trustees consists of these officers, together with Maurice Springer, of the Springer Mill Company at Olympia; W. L. Raymond, of the Olympic Forest Products Company at Port Angeles, and John Robinson, of the Robinson Manufacturing Company, Everett.

The trustees of the Puget Sound Associated Mills have engaged as manager Robert E. Seely, who has had extensive experience in the merchandising of West Coast lumber on the Atlantic seaboard. The West Coast Lumbermen's Association regards the organization of this company as one of the most constructive developments in the lumber industry of Washington for many years. Col. W. B. Greeley, secretary-manager of the association, has long advocated the grouping of western Oregon and Washington lumber mills in strong merchandising organizations, capable of the aggressive development of markets as well as handling current sales. This is of special importance, in Col. Greeley's judgment, on the Atlantic Coast which—with the tremendous backhaul territory available to it—represents the single most important market of the Oregon and Washington mills.

UNITED CHURCH MISSIONS MADE MUCH PROGRESS

Dr. A. E. Armstrong Tells Conference of Work in Orient

Kagawa of Japan May Become Great Figure in World Religious Revival

Missions, home and foreign, were discussed at length yesterday evening by the British Columbia Conference of the United Church of Canada, the main floor of First Church being well filled with delegates and citizens when Rev. Dr.
A. E. Mitchell, the new president, called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock.

The principal speaker was Rev. A.
E. Armstrong, D.D., of Toronto, associate missions secretary of the United Church, who said the United Church was teaching Christ to twenty-five nationalities in Canada and carrying on missionary work in eight foreign fields.

There was no difference between home and foreign missions in the view of God. Victoria was 800 miles closer to Japan than to England and the sea had been converted into a link instead of a barrier between nations. Dr. Armstrong pointed out.

WORKERS BURDENED

"Christianity is not possessed of a genius for waiting. 'Go preach!' said Jesus, and the Church has ever since been on the aggressive," he said, telling of the high quality of the medical and dental missionaries serving the church in west China, Korea and in India.
Dr. Armstrong said depletion of staffs for lack of funds was causing workers to break down and valuable men had died in haste and in sorrow.

He told of colleges and universities maintained by the United Church, especially that at Kobe, Japan, where great interest is taken in the work of Kagawa, leader of the "Kingdom of God" movement in Japan, who would visit Canada for three days next October. Kagawa was living as closely as possible to the life of Jesus Christ though half blind and tubercular.

How the converts of various Oriental countries are encouraged to take an active part in promotion of Christianity was touched upon. Dr. Armstrong said that much progress towards unity of churches had been made in China and India. Christians in the former country having set themselves an objective of 1,000,000 converts within five years.

The importance of the simplified Chinese writing, with only 1,000 characters, was touched upon. Dr. Armstrong forecasting that in twenty years the majority of the people will be able to read, there being to-day less than 10 per cent literacy in China.

GREAT NATIVE WORKERS
Touching upon his first meeting Dr.
Chung Ching Yee, China's great apostle of Christianity. Moderator of the United Church in China, Dr. Armstrong said he had found Dr. Yee had been shipped across Canada under bond in 1919. He was glad that in recent years
Dr. Yee had revisited Canada and had been extended honors which somewhat offset the deep insult of the earlier treatment accorded him.

Dr. Armstrong concluded by reverting to Kagawa and the power of his simple teaching. He suggested possibility that a new Apostle Paul was come into the world and that men would yet say "There was a man sent us of God, and his name was Kagawa."

HOME MISSIONS
Home missions speakers were introduced by Rev. J. P. Westman and Rev.
Dr. O. Wilson. Rev. E. L. Hanthrup special missionary to Scandinavian residents in Vancouver, said twenty young people had been converted last winter and told of instruction given in the English language. He praised Norwegian, Swedish and Danish immigrants as the finest possible material for the upbuilding of Canada.

Rev. Andrew Walker told of work in the Kootenays, especially in the abandoned mining areas. The dangers of travel in wild mountain territory were sketched.

Rev. Everett Fleming of Burns Lake told of problems involved in serving a large pioneer district. He also told interesting stories of the Yukon, where he served for some years.

Rev. Dr. S. S. Osterhout of Toronto, superintendent of missions, introduced a number of Chinese and Japanese evangelists and mission workers among Oriental communities on the Pacific Coast cities.

Sooke

A special meeting of the Sooke Athletic Association was held in Charters Hall on Monday evening, May 11, to discuss the forming of the softball club. The president, G. H.
Jones, occupied the chair. Several new members joined and arrangements were made to improve the present condition of the playground through voluntary labor from the members of the association. Officers appointed by the meeting were as follows: Robert Acreman, team manager; Felix Nordman, captain of the senior team; Earl Grey, captain of the junior team; A. Donaldson, G. H. Jones and G. Revercomb, field committee. Practices are being held twice a week and arrangements are now under way for the staging of games between the local and outside teams.

A card party of military five hundred and dance will be held in the Sooke Hall on Saturday evening, May 16, under the auspices of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute.

Colwood

The date set for the summer sale of work is June 10 by the Women's Auxiliary to St. John's Church, final arrangements being made at a monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in Colwood Hall, when there was a good attendance. Many finished articles for the coming sale were brought in by members.

The study book was read by the president, also, business transacted and correspondence read.

Mrs. W. Parker and Miss Scott were hostesses.
Mrs. J. Hopwood, "housewife" leaves shortly for an extended holiday in Scotland, where she will visit relatives.
Mrs. Jack Byers of Vancouver is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Moore, Albert Head.

MONTY—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles

Monty (nee Pappenberg), Lake Cowichy, a daughter, June 11. Both mother and child doing well.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear brother

Jim, who passed away May 15, 1930.

In our hearts your memory lingers,

Sweetly tender, fond and true.

There is not a day, dear brother,

That we do not think of you.

—Albert and Sally, June Landing, B.C.

In ever-loving memory of our dear son and brother, James McConnell, died May 13, 1929.

Time rolls on and we are reminded

Of a day our lives were crushed.

When God took you, oh so quickly,

And we all in blood were drenched.

In the bloom of life death claimed you,

In the prime of manhood days.

But we hope some day to meet you

And to be with you always.

REAFFORESTATION OF DOUGLAS FIR IN B.C.

sider the forest conditions with which we have to deal in British Columbia.
The only timber we think about perpetuating is Douglas fir, because it is the most popular export species, and because it is a comparatively small percentage of it cut and we are going to educate people in other countries as to its high qualities, so that they may buy those kinds instead of Douglas fir.

While I have no data regarding the probable cost of artificial reafforestation in British Columbia, it will undoubtedly be expensive, and if proceeded with would be another unproductive asset for generations to come.
The young trees would also require fire protection just the same as the natural reproduction, and in case of a disaster fire that portion of the investment would be wiped out. Had there been a sinking fund created twenty-five of thirty years ago, out of a small percentage of the money received for crown dues and royalties on the sale of timber, there would now be a nice sum on hand for experimental work in this direction. Nature is doing its best to reforest our cut-over land, and would make a good job of it if left alone, but human agencies are doing their utmost to combat Nature's efforts by burning up the young growth. If we must spend money let us spend it on fire protection; keep out fire and we will have plenty of timber.

With the exception of railway ties a very small percentage of export grades can be cut from Douglas fir less than 200 years old, and knows what changes will have taken place 200 years from now? Even within the last 100 years steel, concrete and other building materials have largely supplanted wood. How many steel ships were there 100 years ago? Not one. How many wooden ships are there now? Comparatively few.

Let me here quote in part the views expressed by a prominent Glasgow timber merchant while addressing a recent meeting of the Aberdeen branch of the Royal Scottish Forestry Society:
"The timber trade, both home and foreign, looks on unconcerned while steel sleepers (railway ties), steel telegraph poles, steel scaffolding poles, steel pitprops, steel furnace poles, steel shelving, steel window frames and steel coffins (laughers) were finding their way more and more into the markets where wood alone was formerly used. The box, packing case and barrel industries of Scotland together actually use more timber than the Scottish railway companies."

Hon. Mr. N. S. Loughheed suggests (Province, May 10) that the Dominion Government take over the Forest Branch nursery near New Westminster and grow trees to be distributed all over Canada.

Canadian Government will almost assuredly turn down any such suggestion as being a matter entirely affecting the various provinces, now that they are finding their natural resources and, besides, British Columbia trees are not climatically suited for planting in the prairies or in the eastern provinces. Saplings of the species indigenous to other provinces are much better raised in those provinces. Mr.
Burden in a letter to The London Times a short time ago, made some very misleading statements regarding forest conditions in British Columbia which are apt to convey to the public erroneous ideas in regard to the actual facts, and do not help the lumber industry.

SINGLE TAX
To the Editor:—Let me preface my remarks at this time. Mr. Editor, by thanking you heartily for past favors in publishing all my letters. Your policy of giving fair play and equal opportunities to all opinions is highly commendable and might be emulated to public advantage by others.

Still I have a little "wall of woe" to register. While your printers are usually very accurate, there were a few errors in my letter of April 23. There I am made to say "severely" instead of "serenely," "assured" instead of "unassured," and "obstructs" instead of "obfuscates."

In your issue of May 2 Mr. Dean says: "Consider over the fact that one-half of all the buildings in Victoria from cellar to roof pay no taxes, and consider the difference in value and earning capacity and the varying demands they make for civic services."

Well, the vacant lots get the same services, which gives them their selling price, but buildings get no part of their price from civic services, as their value is fixed by the amount of labor and capital it will take to rebuild them.
There are twenty-two municipalities in the province, according to Mr.

Dean's own computation, that have no tax at all from "cellar to roof," and their officials "point with pride" to the cheap lots and tax-free buildings which are attracting homebuilders and builders. These facts show Mr. Dean's array of figures to be just so much washbasin stuff. Mr. Dean intimates he is not "a visionary," but keeps his "feet on the ground."

Well, then, let me quote him a few solid facts: Captain Randall, who died in 1900, left a farm in New York City to be used as a snail harbor for old sailors. At that time its rental value was $4,000 per annum; in 1920 it had risen to $40,000 per annum; today it is worth $4,000,000 per annum.
The New York Times of March 8, 1931, tells the story of a plot of land in Seattle, Washington, purchased in 1879 for $1.00, which was recently leased for a long term at an aggregate rental of $60,000,000.

In a near-by column is another article carrying the caption, "Really Taxation Called Too High," pleading for greater economy in public expenditures. In one breath you are told of a monstrous fortune extracted from industry without equivalent. In the next you are greeted by a tale so pitiful that you instinctively reach for your hat to take up a collection for the benefit of the poor landlady.

On the waterfront of Burrard Inlet is a sawmill site on which has been done a profitable business for the owners for a lifetime. My guess is that it cost them around $15, but call it $100 for good measure. A couple of years ago the Canadian Government needed that site for National Railway purposes. They paid for it $2,450,000.
I am not criticizing the owners. But doesn't it look like an imbecile policy for governments to sell land outright when it would be just as easy to lease it? Everybody in Canada, including John Dean, is taxed to buy back that piece of land grown in value from $100 to almost $2,500,000, because of the progress of the country, and not anything the owners did in it or on it.

The above examples ought to show clearly where governments could easily get enough revenue without confiscating the property of the citizen. The taxation of the citizen should be based on the value of his property. If he has a "foot on the ground" and his head is void of vision, or if his whole mind and heart concentrated on how to confiscate the other half of Victoria's buildings "from cellar to roof," there is a story told of a man who practiced peering through pin-holes in the ground to see through a ladder.

Can Mr. Dean give a single instance of a labor product—a house, a ship or a locomotive—increasing in value except by increased cost of labor and material? If he cannot he is quite out of court; he has no case.

It is refreshing to see that Alderman Fleming of Port Alberni gracefully de-sists, against his own judgment, to the people's will in the matter of continuing the exemption of improvements.
This is a good example for the Saanich Council to follow. Three-fourths of the elements there vote against the taxation of improvements some years ago, yet the council went against them and imposed the tax on fifteen per cent of the value. They should remove that little stain at the first opportunity.

ALWAYS

the backbone of Canadian advertising!

And particularly when selling becomes difficult---when prosperity lags---when the wheels of industry slow down.

During periods such as these, Canadian business executives depend more than ever on the daily newspapers to sell merchandise.

Why?

Mainly because daily newspapers produce instant response, instant results.

Daily newspapers reach and move to action vast groups of people quickly.

No other carrier of the sales message covers a market so intimately, so completely.

Practically every Canadian family reads a daily newspaper. It is an essential part of their daily life. Without it they would feel a distinct loss. Nothing can take its place. Because it occupies this unique position in Canadian life and thought, no form of selling can supplant the daily newspaper.

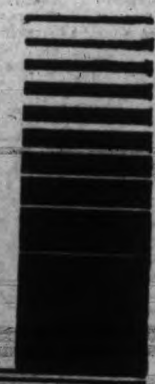

It is economical.

It is flexible.

It is the advertiser's unfailing point of contact with his market.

For prompt action on sales plans—for quick customer influence at minimum cost—for real co-operation from the retail trade, the daily newspaper is to-day, as always, the outstanding advertising medium in Canada.

CANADIAN DAILY NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION

WHEAT SALES OF 1917 TOPIC OF DISCUSSION

Commons Agriculture Committee May Declare Whether Board Paid Farmers Enough

Ottawa, May 15.—Investigation of farmers that Canadian farmers did not receive all they were entitled to when the wheat crops were marketed under government supervision during the Great War may be made by the agricultural committee of the House of Commons.

Climaxing hours of discussion in the House, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, yesterday evening intimated he would have no objection to the committee investigating the question if that course were considered advisable by the complaining members.

PRICE FLUCTUATED

For the greater part of the day problems relating to wheat were the subject of discussion in the House. First of all, the House turned back the calendar to war years in an effort to discover whether any profiteering, either on the part of the government or individuals, took place when the 1917 and 1918 crops were sold to the Allied nations. Farmers then received a fixed price based on $2.21 a bushel, but the world price fluctuated at times considerably higher.

A committee of the House, before which witnesses could be produced and documents studied, was declared to be the best medium to settle the question. John Vallance, Liberal, South Battleford, embodied this demand in a formal motion, but withdrew it when the minister voiced no objection to that course if the members themselves agreed it was worth while.

ITEM LEFT OVER

After hours of discussion an item of $2,681,000 for administration of the Canadian Grain Act was allowed to stand for further consideration.

HALF MILLION DISTRIBUTED

During yesterday's discussion Mr. Stevens presented figures showing a balance of approximately $500,000 had been turned in by the Canada Wheat Board in 1923, when it went out of business. The Canada Wheat Board succeeded the Board of Grain Supervisors in the marketing of the wheat crop. That balance was distributed among the various provinces interested.

1931 WHEAT TRADE

There was a discussion yesterday evening of present-day markets for Canadian wheat. Hon. H. H. Stevens was pressed by opposition members to describe steps taken by the Bennett Government to find markets for wheat.

Mr. Stevens said the government, in assuming office last August, lost no time in instructing Canada's trade commissioners to bend every effort in broadening markets for wheat and flour.

In 1929 and 1930, Mr. Stevens proceeded, an attitude arose in Europe that was against wheat from North America. Rightly or wrongly, Canada was charged with advancing prices. Europe then turned to other markets. Argentina received additional business, he continued, and, in addition, many flour millers in Germany, France, Switzerland and some other countries changed their screens so as to mill Argentine wheat.

This year, the millers were found to be reluctant to change back their machinery and many governments had applied "very drastic protection for their own agriculturists and wheat growers." Other nations adopted a fixed quota against foreign wheat and strenuous propaganda was carried on to use rye or black bread.

WILL TAKE YEARS

"Recognizing these conditions and to disabuse the minds of European millers," continued Mr. Stevens, "we have tried to build up markets in other parts of the world. But that will take time. It will take years. We have made some progress. We also found new markets in Colombia, though small, I admit."

POLICY CHANGED

The ideal of the Wheat Pool had in the past been to deal direct with the consumers rather than the middlemen, said Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Liberal Minister of Agriculture. They appeared recently to have abandoned that ideal, but the change in policy had been costly when present low prices for grain were considered.

Missouri Pacific—Inasmuch as M.P.R.ry. failed to cover preferred dividend requirements of $88,388 by $3,000 in the first quarter and the fact that road's cash position is not exceptionally strong, it is unlikely that directors will vote a payment for the second quarter at meeting due later this month. At present time problem with Missouri Pacific is lack of ready cash. Financing of $61,200,000 bonds in January gave the company only about $3,736,000 cash after payment of maturing $42,874,000 Iron Mountain 5's and $10,500,000 notes due March 31. Unquestionably it could obtain another short term loan to tide the road over until a propitious time arrives to permit more favorable bond financing. The recent bond issue above referred to is presently priced at around 86, giving a yield to maturity of about 5 1/2 per cent. At times such at these it would seem illogical to pay dividends on preferred, even though there is a possibility of earning same by the end of the year, and have to continue to borrow money for improvements when its capital structure is composed of approximately 75 per cent funded debt. 12.7 per cent preferred and 14.3 per cent common. April loadings were 18 per cent below a year ago and 4 per cent under preceding month.

PREMIER BRACKEN SPEAKS

Winnipeg, May 15.—Premier John Bracken, in a speech here yesterday evening defended the record of his government against charges that it showed extravagance and incompetence. Suggestions that conditions in Manitoba would be improved if the Conservative party were entrusted with the administration were discounted by the premier.

N. Y. Market Analysis

The Wall Street Journal to-day says:

"The one sustaining factor in the current situation is the prospect of a large supply of money at low rates. Eventually this is likely to force a larger volume of funds into the securities markets. Bonds should be the first to reflect such buying. In fact, some of the investment firms contend that there have been signs of a better demand for some of the issues since the reduction in the New York rediscount rate a week ago."

"Sooner or later when there is a more cheerful feeling with regard to business and the stock market, part of the surplus of investment money should come into the high grade stock for a good yield. It is probable that such a development would have occurred already had it not been for the lack of confidence which has been displayed by market and business students as well as the public which has been remaining on the sidelines watching fluctuations."

"Much of the recent irregularity has been a direct reflection of the operations of professionals. Some stocks have moved ahead while others have been reactionary at the same time. Traders who have been credited with being most active are those who were so outspokenly bearish for a long time. Some of them have covered and adopted a long position in a few of the leading stocks recently. While others maintained their pessimistic attitude and continued to put out short lines when rallies have brought stocks to somewhat higher levels."

"At least one important banker is of the opinion that the market and business might be scraping bottom just now. He admits, of course, that much depends upon developments in business in the coming months. However, the point is made that recent developments in the stock market in production in various industries and in commodity prices indicated the bottom might be within reach."

STEVENS SAYS TRADE TREATIES TO BE REVISED

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 15.—Canada's trade treaties with other countries will be gone over during the year with a view to revision, according to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who spoke of the matter at yesterday evening's sitting of the Commons.

Before the election, said Wilfred Hanbury, Liberal, Vancouver-Burrard, Conservatives were claiming that if elected they would promptly cancel all trade treaties made by the Liberals between Canada and other countries. Had this been done? he asked.

Aside from the Australian treaty, now being revised, no treaty had been cancelled, Mr. Stevens replied. The questions of some twenty to thirty treaties would be taken up within the next year.

Woolen Mission Urges Advantage Of Duty Concession

London, May 15.—The British Woolen Mission, which recently visited Canada, recommends, among other things, that advantage should be taken of the ten-per-cent concession allowed on goods imported into Canada without transshipment.

Other recommendations are: That the national association give consideration as soon as possible to distributing methods, because the existing channels are totally inadequate; that wherever possible manufacturers should carry sufficient yarn to execute repeat orders without delay; that the association prepare information on Scottish goods for circulation among salesmen, and that the industry should make an attempt to introduce Scottish wools into the motor industry for upholstery purposes.

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817

REASONS for the Present

Dominion of Canada Conversion Loan

BETWEEN now and 1934, Canada must provide more than a thousand million dollars to repay citizens who bought War and Victory Loan Bonds. These vast loans must be refunded; that is to say, renewed or extended, just like renewing a mortgage—in this case, with the entire resources of the Dominion of Canada as security. The present offer to Bondholders is the first step in this refunding operation. No new money is being asked for.

The question may be asked—Why not wait until the present Bonds mature and then give holders the option of renewing? The answer is that it would be unwise for any country to wait until the last minute to formulate its financial policy.

Even as War and Victory Loan Bonds were issued over a term of years, so must the Conversion (or renewal) of the Loans be arranged for in good time.

The advantages to those who convert their present Bonds into the new Bonds are:

1—They will be extending the term of their investment in Canada's premier security;

2—They will receive, until maturity of present Bonds, the full rate of interest (with tax exemption, if any) carried by such Bonds;

3—Thereafter, they will be assured of a definite income at the attractive rate of 4 1/4% per annum for a period of not less than fifteen years and possibly twenty-five.

The conditions that have existed during the past two years have proved the unassailable quality of Dominion of Canada Bonds. Their market value has remained almost constant.

These are sound business reasons why you should exchange your Bonds for Bonds of the 1931 Conversion Loan.

Conversion applications are invited to a total of $250,000,000, but the Minister of Finance reserves the right to increase or decrease this amount. Subscription lists will be closed on or before 23rd May, 1931. Bondholders who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity for re-investment should therefore act without delay.

Bonds of the following issues are exchangeable for Bonds of the 1931 Conversion Loan:

|--------------------|--------|------------------------|
| War Loan | 5% | due 1st October, 1931 |
| Renewal Loan | 5 1/4% | due 1st November, 1932 |

Murder Backstairs

"Oh, I'm going to stop trying to manage other people," Mrs. Berkeley laughed, flushing brightly. "Your father and I had a long talk last night, children, and your old Abbie is going to settle down and be a model small-town wife and mother."

Husband and wife exchanged the first frank, affectionate glance that Dundee had seen pass between them and the young detective felt a sudden surge of something remotely akin to fondness for the woman he had disliked so heartily.

He looked swiftly toward Gigi. The child's eyes were downcast and her lips were trembling, but whether from grief at Mr. Lambert's imminent departure, or from a painful joy over her mother's tacitly promised reformation, he could not tell. But when he glanced at Mrs. Lambert he felt no doubt at all as to what had brought the tears to her blue-gray, shadowed eyes. For her eyes were upon Gigi.

At 9:45 Dick Berkeley knocked impatiently upon Dundee's door. "I'll be down in five minutes, Dick," the detective promised. "Wait for me in the car. Have the other gone?" "Everybody's gone—including the servants," Dick told him. "And you'd better make it snappy or we'll be late."

Carrying a suitcase, Dundee moved swiftly from bedroom to bedroom, collecting white canvas tennis shoes and golf shoes. In one bedroom he paused before a dressing table, picked up a black-and-gold bottle of perfume, removed the stopper and sniffed. There came over his face a ludicrous expression of disappointment. Then he read the label—Nuit de Jolie! he'd had a girl not so long ago who used that scent; he sniffed again, then smiled triumphantly. Very carefully he wrapped the bottle in his handkerchief and deposited it among the shoes.

"What are you doing with that suitcase?" Dick demanded. "I thought you were staying here until this murder business was cleared up." "I'm just taking some stuff into town to have it cleaned," Dundee assured him. They drove along in silence, but when Dundee asked the boy to stop at the city hall, Dick commented dryly:

"I didn't know there was a laundry or a cleaners' shop here, and suppose the politicians need one for their dirty linen."

Dundee was still smiling at Dick's brave attempt at a joke when he entered the laboratory of Dr. Abel Jennings, city chemist and toxicologist. "Another job for you, doctor," he announced, as he opened the suitcase. "You may find it a poser. I want to know if there are any wood alcohol impurities lurking beneath the nice white polish on any of these shoes, but—particularly this pair."

"Then I'll analyze the cloth of these shoes first," Dr. Jennings promised matter-of-factly. "What's the poser?" "I thought maybe the white shoe polish had queerer our chances," Dundee admitted. "Then one other little thing, doctor. Look! Can you tell me whether this perfume is a mixture of what the label claims it to be and Fleur d'Amour, the scent on that handkerchief I gave you to analyze?"

"Each perfume is composed of its own essential oils," the doctor answered. "If there's any—what d'you call it?—Fleur d'Amour, I'll be able to tell you."

"When?" "I'll try to have both reports by 5 o'clock," the doctor answered, then explained in some detail the need for so much time.

Dundee returned to Dick's car, with his suitcase and three minutes more to be called by the coroner, Payne was on his way to Hillcrest. Coroner Price reproved the two inexpressible late arrivals with a fierce frown, which seemed to have no effect upon Detective Dundee's cheerfulness.

The inquest dragged along until past noon, bringing forth no new evidence, of his own recent discoveries Dundee said nothing. Dr. Price called upon him to tell of the discovery of the body in the lake and of the removal to the summer house, then dismissed him. At 1 o'clock District-Attorney Sherwood requested an adjournment of the inquest until Thursday and the coroner readily agreed.

"Well! Where do we go from here?" Captain Strawn grinned at his young subordinate as they lingered in the cleared tunnel chapel. "I'll bet Sherwood would give his new silk topper not to have jumped into this Jonah of a case so cockily. Did you see the papers this morning? Promised the dear voters he'd have the murderer behind bars within twenty-four hours."

"I'm afraid his prophecy will come true, chief—though no one will be more surprised than District-Attorney Sherwood himself!" "Hey! What's that? Been holding out on me, have you, young fellow me lad?" Strawn blustered. "I have got a pot on to boil," Dundee confessed. "I can't tell you about it now, for I may be all wrong. But if I'm right—and I think I am—you are now invited to attend a very private confession party at Hillcrest this afternoon at 6 o'clock."

"And in the meantime, what am I supposed to do?" Strawn demanded subacutely. "I'm only the chief of the homicide squad, What are my orders?"

Dundee laughed. "I want you to telephone to Hillcrest this afternoon about 4 o'clock and request, very officially, the presence of every member of the family, and of Crosby, Mrs. Lambert and Wickert, in your office. I'll come along as a matter of course and to make sure there are no absences. You can tell them anything you like, hammer away at them with as many questions as you can think up. I'll slip away at 5 and telephone you whether the cops' boiling or not. If it is, I'd like for you to duck out at about 5:40, leaving word with Sergeant Turner to dismiss the crowd ten minutes after you're gone. By then you'll be on your way to Hillcrest, with a ten minutes start of the Berkeley. I'll be waiting for you and then—with luck the pot should boil over very promptly."

Probably if Dundee had not staged a confession in the Rhodes House murders in much the same secretive and dramatic fashion, Captain Strawn would not have lent his aid to the programme outlined by his subordinate, without knowing what it was all about.

As it was, the chief of the homicide squad followed instructions to the letter. At 5 o'clock Dundee left police headquarters for Dr. Jennings's laboratory. At 5:10 he spoke four cryptic words into Captain Strawn's ear: "The pot is boiling." In other five minutes he was in a police car, headed toward Hillcrest, his suitcase between his knees.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Screamer

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

(Copyright, 1931, by Howard R. Garis.)

Once upon a time there was a screamer.

Wait, if you please, I am starting this story wrong. It should begin like this:

One day Uncle Wiggily was hopping around in the woods looking for an adventure. He was all of a sudden, he heard loud screams.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the jolly old rabbit gentleman as he listened to the loud screams. "Who can this be? I hope it isn't the Bob Cat."

"No, it isn't the Bob Cat," said a voice behind Uncle Wiggily and he turned to see Mrs. Twistytail, the fat pig lady, looking at him.

"Oh," exclaimed the rabbit. "I hope you weren't screaming!"

"No, indeed," answered Mrs. Twistytail. "Do many things but I don't squeal. However it was a pig scream or squeal that you heard."

"Was it?" asked Uncle Wiggily in surprise. "You don't mean to tell me that a screaming pig just heard came from either of your little piggy boys, Floppy or Curly, do you?"

"No, I don't mean to tell you that," answered Mrs. Twistytail with a jolly smile which made her mouth seem larger than it really was. "It was a pig screaming, but it wasn't one of my boys. It's my sister's little pig. She lives over the oak trees."

And Mrs. Twistytail pointed with one paw.

"What is your sister's little pig screaming for?" asked Uncle Wiggily as, once more, he heard the unpleasant sounds.

"I don't know what Porki is screaming for now," said Mrs. Twistytail, shaking one of her legs. "I left my sister, a short time ago Porki (which is the name of my nephew) was screaming because he could not eat all the oak leaves he wanted."

"Does he scream for that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Porki screams for anything," said Mrs. Twistytail, sadly shaking her fat head. "Screaming is the easiest and worst thing he does. I suppose if you went over there now you would find Porki screaming because his mother, to keep him quiet, let him have all the oak leaves he wanted and he has made himself ill by eating them. Just fancy!"

"Just fancy, indeed," agreed Mr. Longears. And as the little pig kept on screaming Mr. Longears said: "I think I shall hop over to your sister's pen-house and see why Porki is screaming now."

"Yes, do," begged Mrs. Twistytail. "Perhaps you could think of a way to stop Porki from doing that dreadful screaming. His mother is so ashamed of him and so am I whenever I pay them a visit. Oh, listen to that pig screaming pig!" and Mrs. Twistytail covered her ears with her paws as she couldn't stand the noise any more.

Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods until he reached the pen where Mrs. Twistytail's sister lived. Uncle Wiggily had no trouble finding the place. He just followed the screams until he reached there and, as in front he saw a little pig boy standing on his hind legs, with his mouth open wide and screams and squeals coming out.

"What's the matter, Porki?" asked Uncle Wiggily kindly.

"How did you know my name is Porki?" asked the little pig, stopping his screams long enough to say those words.

"Oh, your aunt told me," said Uncle Wiggily, smiling as he pointed over toward the path along which Mrs. Twistytail was hurrying home.

"Is my aunt coming back here and bring me some corn-cob candy?" asked Porki.

"I think not," Uncle Wiggily answered.

P. S. CAPEN

You are a bad little pig!

"Then I'm going to scream louder than ever," howled Porki. He did not have to open his mouth, for it was already open. And then such a screamer as that little pig boy turned himself into! My goodness! You should have heard him! No, on second thought, it's better that you can't hear him!

Out of the pen house waddled a fat pig lady who looked so much like Mrs. Twistytail that Uncle Wiggily knew she was her sister.

"Why is Porki screaming now?" asked the little pig's mother.

"He is crying," said Uncle Wiggily, "because his aunt isn't coming back to bring him corn-cob candy."

"Oh, Porki! How ashamed I am of you!" grunted his mother. "You are a bad little pig! All of a sudden Porki stopped screaming."

"Why I believe you have cured him, Uncle Wiggily!" grunted the lady pig. But Porki opened his mouth wider and screamed:

"No, I'm not cured! I just stopped screaming to get my breath! I've got something new to scream about now!"

"I'm going to scream now," said Porki, "because my Ma said I was bad! And he opened his mouth still wider and screamed louder."

"I must do something about this," said Mr. Longears. And in the next story, if the loaf of bread will stop sprinkling talcum powder all over it, I'll pretend it's a coconut cake, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and Porki.

her a Pulitzer prize winner and well known as a dramatist will be related by Mrs. Margaret Ayer Barnes of Chicago when she speaks from the NBC Chicago studios as guest artist on the Armstrong Quakers programme to-night at 6 o'clock, Victoria time.

Just last week Mrs. Barnes was notified that she had been named winner of the Pulitzer prize for the best novel of the year, "Years of Grace." Earl Sande, one of the greatest jockeys in turf history, will swap his silks and saddle for a microphone on Derby Day this year in Louisville. The famous rider, who guided Gallant Fox to victory in last year's classic at Churchill Downs, will be teamed with Clem McCarthy and Graham McNamee to give the NBC coast-to-coast audience the most complete report of a horse race in the annals of radio during a broadcast of the Kentucky Derby to-morrow afternoon, between 2:45 and 3:30 o'clock, Victoria time.

Sande will give expert views of the horses and their riders as they parade for the race. McNamee will describe the crowd and the background, while McCarthy will report the progress of the thoroughbreds as they thunder around the grueling mile-and-a-quarter course.

The programme will be heard through KOMO, Seattle.

NEW GENERAL ELECTRIC

A new thirty-minute schedule will be inaugurated over an extensive NBC network during the General Electric broadcast to-morrow, between 8 and 8:30 o'clock, Victoria time.

During the summer months this programme will replace the symphonic concerts directed from October to May by Walter Damrosch, which also featured "Adventures in Science" talks by Gibbons, who took his listeners on verbal explanatory trips through the different departments of "The House of Magic" the General Electric plant at Schenectady.

"The Type of Woman That Men Not Only Fall in Love With Most but Stay in Love With Longest Is the Soft, Gentle, Feminine Sort, and the Clinging Vine Has Ten Times More Chance of Holding Her Husband Than Has Her Sturdy Oak Sister"

A CORRESPONDENT asks: "What type of women do men prefer?" Oh, all sorts, for there are many men with many minds and each has a different mind about women. Some like them tall and some like them short. Some are strong for Amazons and others fall for pocket Venuses. Some like grabbers and others dummies. Highbrows and lowbrows each have their followers. Some gentlemen prefer blonde and others brunettes.

And so it goes, and if you look around among your married acquaintances you will observe that one woman seems to have about as good a chance as another of appealing to some man's fancy, and that looks nor brains nor character nor intelligence seems to have much to do with it.

However, taking the subject by and large, I think that the type of woman that men not only fall in love with most but stay in love with longest is the soft, gentle, feminine sort, and that the clinging vine has ten times more chance to hold her husband than has her sturdy oak sister.

One of the main reasons why girls find it so hard to get dates nowadays, why there are fewer marriages and more divorces, is because women are less feminine and more aggressive than they used to be.

Everywhere you see women aping men and trying to make imitation men of themselves. They put on pants in which they look figures of fun. They drink and smoke and swear and tell smutty stories, for when a woman tries to be a man she never succeeds in being a gentleman. They choose masculine occupations and do their work in a masculine way as nearly as they can.

In a word, they make themselves competitors of men, and it is not of record that any man is particularly drawn toward his deadly rival. Nor are men attracted by mannishness in a woman any more than women are by effeminacy in a man.

Every woman knows that no other man in the world is so repulsive to her as the sissy who tips and simpers and has his hair permanently waved and uses lipstick and whose chief interest in life is his clothes. She has more use for a brute and a bully.

So it is a curious thing that women do not realize that men have the same reaction against the masculine woman, and that they are not attracted toward the betroused creatures who don't even look or act like little brother, or anything else that God ever created.

Whether men are in reality more intelligent than women and superior to them is, of course, a debatable subject. But, at any rate, men are firmly convinced that they are, and that is a good and sufficient reason why they prefer women who do not rouse any uncomfortable doubts in their minds.

Any pretty little flapper with a teaspoonful of brains can marry in circles all around a high-browed college graduate. The popular girls in society are not those who hand out an erudite line of conversation, but those who roll their eyes at a man and ask him fool questions.

Also the best-loved wives are not those noble, strong, energetic, capable helpmates who have worked shoulder to shoulder with their husbands and done more than their share in building up the family fortunes. The adored and petted wives are the helpless little things who have hung on their husbands' necks and who have had to be thought for and cared for and protected like babies.

It is a truism that marriage and careers don't mix for women and that virtually every woman who is successful outside of her home is a failure in it from her husband's point of view. This is not because the woman isn't a good and loving wife or because she neglects her home and does not make her husband comfortable. It is simply because his pride can't endure the gray mare being the better horse or his wife being more prominent than he is and outshining him.

The bitterest insult you can offer any man is to introduce him as Mrs. So-and-so's husband. A man is pleased when you praise his wife's beauty or her good dressing or her cooking, but you make a fatal blunder when you tell him that a fine lawyer or doctor or business woman his wife is and how lucky he is to have a wife who is a money-maker.

It is sex attraction that makes a man prefer the soft feminine woman. It is vanity that makes him like to be an oracle to a woman and to have her look up to him. But it is something fine and gallant that makes him love best the woman who is weak and helpless, who turns to him for protection and whom he must defend against the world.

She makes an appeal to him that the sturdy, self-reliant woman, who can stand on her own feet and fight her own battles, never does. And that is why the eternal feminine will always prevail and why women throw away their trump card when they cast their femininity into the discard.

Dividing Birds of Long Ago

Yesterday I told you about the earliest known birds. Other kinds of birds developed during later times, as we know from remains found in the midst of rock layers.

Among the later birds was the kind scientists call "Hesperornis," a name formed from Greek words meaning "Western Bird." The only lesson I can find for the name is that the first skeleton was found in western Kansas.

Sixty years ago, while searching for fossils in the chalk beds of Kansas, Prof. O. C. Marsh found the skeleton of one of these birds. The bones were cleaned and studied. Professor Marsh announced that the bird had a beak with teeth.

The chalk beds date back to a time when Kansas was under water. This is so long ago that we may safely say there were then no people on earth to call it by a name. I suppose the bird got along just as well.

Since the discovery by the professor, other remains of the same kind of bird have been found. We know that it had large, clumsy-looking feet; and from the size and shape of the leg bones we feel sure that it had powerful muscles to use in paddling.

The body of Western Bird was about five feet long. Its head was of medium size, but it had a longer beak than most birds of the present time. The beak was long, rows of teeth. If a hen had as many teeth as this ancient bird, we should no longer have the saying, "as scarce as a hen's teeth."

One of the strange things about this bird was the absence of wings. Only one small bone was present where large wing bones should have been. This is taken as proof that the bird could not fly. We believe, however, that it was a fine swimmer and an expert diver.

There is no living example of Western Bird—its bones are all we have to remember it by. (Scrapbook Club members may place this article under "Science," subheading "Zoology.") To-morrow—Giant Birds of the Past

VANCOUVER SINGERS WIN MOST AWARDS

Second Day of Musical Festival Sees Lord Nelson School Triumphant

David Spencer Choral Society Again Wins; Local Singer Unplaced

Vancouver, May 15.—Sixteen city schools entered the lists at the B.C. musical festival, in class 23, grade 3, yesterday. The winner in the final test was the Lord Nelson "A" School, Miss Margaret Allan conducting, the marking reaching the total, preliminary and final, of 340.

This school wrested the Russell McLean shield from the Bayview School, which held it for the last year. Next in order in the same class came Tecumseh School with a marking of 346. Miss V. M. Johnston conducted. Lord Nelson "B" Miss Allen again conducting, took third place with a marking of 342 over all.

In the class for Sunday school orchestras there was only one entry. This was Trinity Fellowship in Trinity Sunday School orchestra, conducted by Edgar Glyde. The Glendinning silver cup therefore was taken from the Grandview Baptist S.S.O., which held it for the previous year.

In class 64, girls' solo for students under fifteen, high voice, the Hayward silver medal was won by Marion Wishart, with a marking of 172 preliminary and final. Second came Mary Douglas and Florence Hay, both of whom took 171 and will be given certificates, and Lella Seamer, who took 170, and who will benefit likewise.

LOCAL SINGER UNPLACED

The test piece was "A Fairly Madrigal" (Watts), and there were forty-six entrants in the first trials. Two were from the outside, Anne G. Ord of Victoria and Nancy Brankston of Nanaimo, but they were not included in the finals.

In respect to the violin finals, class B1, for students under sixteen, the silver medal donated by Royal Lodge No. 6, Knights of Pythias, was awarded to Beatrice Hodgson of West Vancouver. In the baritone solo, class S1, twenty-four competitors took part in the preliminary trials. Four were selected to compete in the contest for the Vancouver Philharmonic Club gold medal. This award falling to Gordon Kestley with a marking of 174.

In the case of the contest for commercial choirs, class 9, there was only one entrant. This was the David Spencer choral society, Wilbur Grant conducting, the award being the Bachel silver challenge cup, which this choir took last year and which it will keep.

Other interesting contest included class 62 for young vocalists under nineteen, contralto, competing for the silver cup donated by Mrs. W. M. McCiellan, convener of the ladies' festival committee, which has done much work for the movement during the last nine years.

The winner of this test was Lilian Mitchell, who won the medal with 173 marks. Certificates will be given to Pat McInnes and Muriel Wags, who both took the same marking of 168 each. All of the sixteen contestants were Vancouver girls, with the exception of Lilian Mitchell, of Chilliwack, and D. Phyllis Hickman of Chilliwack.

CRANBROOK QUARTETTE

In class 37, quartette for two tenors and two basses, competing for silver medals presented by the Rathbone Lodge No. 34, Knights of Pythias, the award fell to the Cranbrook B.C. quartette, with a marking of 83. The other two entrants were Vancouver Arts Quartette, and the Bohemian Quartette, whose markings were 78 and 82 respectively. Sir Hugh Robertson in making the award, gave these three groups some good advice and much encouragement for further achievement.

In class 84, violin duet for students under 19, the award fell to Beatrice Hodgson and Irene Gracey of West Vancouver, with a total marking of 163.

Vancouver, B.C. May 15.—Classes tested in both preliminaries and finals in the afternoon sessions of the ninth annual B.C. Musical Festival here yesterday.

Class 117, elocution for girls under sixteen, competing for the silver medal donated by Mrs. E. Findlater, and also for the B.C. Dramatic Challenge Cup, Pauline Scott of Vancouver was the winner, topping the list with 189 marks. Audrey D. Nixon of Victoria, the only outside competitor, took 138 marks. Second place fell to Eunice Bennett Alexander, who achieved a marking of 181.

Violin tests, class 81, for students under sixteen, for the silver medal donated by Royal Lodge No. 6, Knights of Pythias, resulted in the selection of Beatrice Hodgson of West Vancouver, and Arnold Moller to compete in the finals.

Horse Back Riders On Willows Beach Must Have More Care

Or Privilege Will Be Taken Away Council Decides

Horseback riding along the Willows Beach will be curtailed immediately, and unless riders take greater care when on the beach the practice will be stopped altogether, it was decided at yesterday's meeting of the Oak Bay Council following the reading of a letter from A. C. Hinton of Branksea Court, Estevan Avenue, who, on behalf of a large number of residents of the district, protested strongly against horseback riding on the Willows Beach. This practice has become even more dangerous during the last month since the weather has sent many people to the beach.

The council decided to warn all riding acemades and officials of the Victoria Thoroughbred Association against using the beach during the crowded season that is now commencing. It was suggested that the beach might be used for riding before 10 o'clock in the morning, but this will be definitely decided later.

The annual meeting of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities will be held this year in New Westminster, at a date to be decided upon later, the council was advised yesterday by A. W. Gray, secretary-treasurer. The council accepted the invitation of the Esquimalt Municipality for the reeve and councillors of Oak Bay to be present at the annual sports day, which will be held in Esquimalt on May 22.

10,000 PILGRIMS MEET IN ROME

Canadian Press

Vatican City, May 15.—Canada, of all the countries of the world, is perhaps relatively most free from Communism, Oeasia Fillion, representing the Confederation of Catholic Workers of Canada, told pilgrims from all parts of the world at a meeting in the Papal Chancery Building here yesterday.

The meeting was held during the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of Pope Leo's encyclical on labor. Mr. Fillion told of the great influence of the encyclical in Canada. He described Canadian labor and social legislation, which he said was constantly being improved. "Our country of all the world," he said, "is perhaps relatively most free from Communist doctrines and anti-religious propaganda. The mass of the workers is religious and we inculcate the belief that the church alone has the true solution of the social problem."

Ten thousand pilgrims from all parts of the world met in celebration of the anniversary of the Pope Leo encyclical. Yesterday they attended pontifical mass in the Church of St. John Lateran, and this afternoon there was a meeting in the Papal Chancery Building, where delegates spoke in many languages of the far-reaching effects of the encyclical in their own countries.

Postal Rate On Newspapers Topic Of M.P.'s Questions

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 15.—The prevailing postal rate on newspapers, and the approximate cost of carrying them through the mails, are the subjects of questions placed on the order paper of the Commons by Hon. J. D. Chaplin, Conservative, Lincoln, Ont.

Mr. Chaplin asks in the first instance, the rate paid by newspapers for the service of carrying newspapers through the mails. He wishes to know the quantity, by weight, of newspapers carried during the last fiscal year "at the special rate at present in force." He then inquires what approximate cost to the government of carrying these newspapers, the amount received for the service and the net cost to the country.

COLLEGE HEADS GIVE REPORTS

United Church Conference Given Presidential Staff of Office

The United Church conference yesterday afternoon was featured by the appearance of an Indian chief in full tribal regalia and also by presentation of an ornately carved walking stick, to be entrusted to each president during his term of office.

The Indian was Chief Billy Asau of the Cape Mudge Indians. He was introduced to the convention at First Church by Rev. W. H. Pierce, who read a statement prepared by the chief as to the benefits which his tribe enjoyed from Christianity. Rev. Peter Kelly and Rev. S. S. Osterhout, D.D., superintendent of missions, also spoke on the progress made by the Cape Mudge tribesmen.

The presidential cane, presented by Dr. R. Laird of Toronto, was carved from mahogany by Rev. L. W. Hill, superannuated pastor of Park Hill Church. It is covered with inscriptions in relief and is similar to others presented to each of the conferences of the church.

COLLEGE REPORTS

The report of Union College was presented by G. P. Gibson and discussed by Principal Brown, who forecast the present position would result in attaining second place among Canada's theological colleges.

The report of Columbia College was presented by Dr. G. F. McKenzie, the principal, who stated that good work was being done despite severe handicaps. There had been a reduction in enrollment, chiefly in the ranks of the residential students. The college had an attendance last year of 108 students and operated at a net loss of $7,000. He appealed for special efforts to steady the finances of the college and the affairs of the college will be brought up later in the proceedings for further debate.

Other speakers were Rev. Dr. Caruthers, retiring after forty-one years' labor in training colleges, and Rev. Prof. R. B. Y. Scott, who is about to leave for Montreal, where he will continue college work.

SAYS RUSSIAN PLAN FAILING

J. B. Clearhugh Tells Lay Association of Conference of Soviet Conditions

The annual banquet of the Conference Lay Association was held yesterday evening in the First Church schoolroom, with O. D. Austin in the chair and eighty-four delegates in attendance. Rev. Dr. A. E. Mitchell, the new president and Rev. O. M. Sanford, immediate past president, were the guests, being the only clergy present.

Joseph B. Clearhugh was the principal speaker, his subject being "Russia's Five Year Plan." He considered the great experiment certain to fail because of unsolvable troubles in financing the plan, although only half way towards its completion. Mr. Clearhugh admitted that the Soviet Government was ahead of its programme in grain production and in industrial manufactures of certain types, but the gains were insufficient to offset failures in many other branches. He believed the Communists could not long continue the pressure on the people which alone made possible the huge exports which had demoralized world trade.

W. H. Ruffell rendered two vocal solos with E. Shewmaker at the piano. Community singing was led by Stanley Brent of Vancouver. The ladies of First Church provided the excellent repast and were warmly thanked by George Gibson of Vancouver.

Several alumni banquets were also held yesterday evening at hotels and restaurants.

Ottawa, May 15.—A statement issued by Hon. C. H. Cahan, Acting Minister of National Revenue, on the results of prosecutions taken under the Excise Act by officers of the preventive service during the last fiscal year shows more than eighty per cent of all parties prosecuted were convicted. Of the 1,036 persons prosecuted, 833 were convicted.
